4-H Congress

ners are announced at the Thursday evening banquet, the 4-H'ers have a busy week to conquer.

Starting Sunday evening will be a musical program by the U.S. Air Force Singing Sergeants.

Monday will officially open the Congress with field trips to points of interest in Chicago. As one of the largest metropolitan areas in the U.S., this city is visited by 7.5 million people every year and provides tourists with many sites. Four-H'ers will have opportunity to see the Field Museum of Natural History, the Sears Tower and the Chicago Board of Trade.

Also on Monday, and every day of Congress, will be workshops on personal development: Dressing for Success, Are You Your Own Leader?, Self TLC, Leisure Education; and personal relations, Survival with Class, Proper Etiquette for Today, Stamping out Stress, and Contemporary Lifestyles.

Wednesday will feature a fashion revue and a trip to the Art Institute of Chicago. The evening will be rounded off with a hot dog party sponsored by Ford Motor Co.

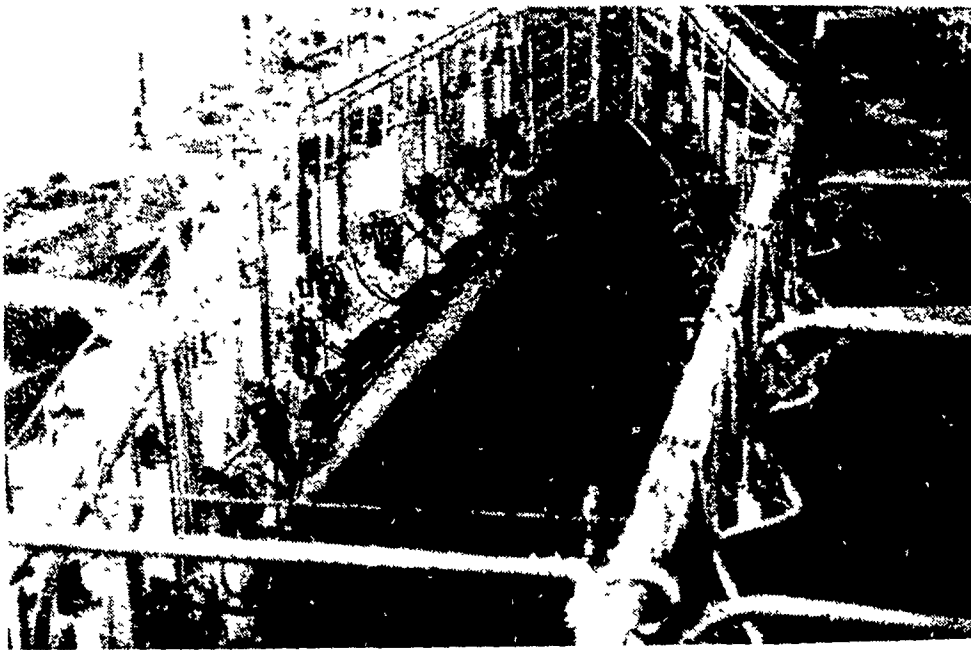

At the annual banquet all national winners and the six Presidential Award winners, chosen from individual program workshops during the week, will be presented to the entire delegation. Also, 287 scholarship winners in 42 programs will be announced. The scholarships total $265,250 in value. Some 75 donors from well-known companies such as Firestone Tire and Rubber and Simplicity Pattern are contributing directly to the Congress program this year.

National 4-H Congress is conducted by the National 4-H Council, the Cooperative Extension Services of the State Land-Grant Universities and the Department of Agriculture.

Just as all 4-H members have the same opportunity to earn their way to 4-H Congress, all youths in the nation have the opportunity to become a 4-H member provided there is appropriate leadership. Of the 5.2 million 4-H'ers in the country, 20.5 percent live on farms, 40 percent come from rural non-farm homes and towns of less than 10,000 to 50,000 population and 23 percent come from suburbs and cities of more than 50,000.
