Wheat industry council elects officers

LANCASTER — Vernon Baird of Fort Worth, TX, was elected chairman of the Wheat Industry Council during the council's first meeting held last month.

Thomas H. Porter, an official with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service, said the council will administer a national research and nutrition education program for wheat and wheat foods seeking ways to improve the quality of wheat and encourage more efficient use of wheat in the American diet.

The program will be funded by assessments on processed wheat bought by certain manufacturers of products such as bread, cake, cookies, cereal, or pasta. AMS will monitor the program.

Other members of the executive committee elected to serve with Baird are: Raymond L. Davis, Potter, Neb., vice-chairman; Sheila Sidles, Corydon, Iowa, secretary; Howard S.

Holmes, Chelsea, Mich., treasurer, and Lester R. Thurston, Jersey City, N.J.

The council of 20 members and 20 alternates, representing end-product manufacturers, processors, producers and consumers authorized its executive committee to begin an immediate search for an executive director and directed an office be established in the Washington, D.C. area.

The council reviewed rules and regulations which establish the procedure for collecting assessments and which define responsibilities of end product manufacturers. It recommended the rules be published by the secretary of agriculture as proposed rulemaking so the public can comment and changes can be made before the regulations are published in final form and the program implemented.

Three standing committees were appointed to begin planning work of the council. Committees and their members are:

Nutrition and Education: Lauren H. Batty, Rye, N.Y.; Wayne K. Nelson, Winner, S.D.; Arlette Rasmussen, Newark, Del.; Joe Hale, Shawnee Mission, Kan.; Robert Schaus, Waterbury, Conn.; and Philip Orth, Oak Creek, Wis.

Research: Max Milner, Bethesda, Md.; Clifton Capps, Los Angeles, Calif.; Richard Kruse, Breckenridge, Minn.; John R. Missen, Falmouth, Maine; Joseph P. Viviano, Hershey, Pa.; and Carolyn Knutson, Portland, Ore.

Finance: B.J. Hinkle, Kansas City, Mo.; M.W.K. Heffelfinger, Minneapolis, Minn.; Robert H. Jepsen, Heppner, Ore.; and Bonnie Liebman, Washington, D.C.

The first members of the council will serve staggered terms. One-half of the members and their respective alternates will serve two years and the remainder will serve three years. Subsequent appointments to the council will be for two years, Porter said.

The new wheat program is authorized under provisions of the Wheat and Wheat Foods Research and Nutrition Education Act of 1977. The order outlining operation of the program was approved in a referendum of wheat end product manufacturers, primarily wholesale bakers, last March.
