games Many of the practical items the family shows are useful in the kitchen and dining areas of the home Cutting boards made from hard oak, cheese boards - complete with wooden spreading knife made from cherry, trivets fashioned from cherry, animal napkin rings, and a bird-shaped candle holder are all attractive and practical

To display plants or store books, magazines or record albums, Dennis sells various sizes of planters and holders which use animal heads (owl, elephant, chicken, mule, pig, goat, horse) for decorative purposes

It is only recently, in the last year, that Dennis says he has had an inventory and enough variety to market his crafts at shows Basically he made crafts for friends and relatives and friends of friends and relatives While continuing to teach full time in the Solanco School District keeps him busy much of the year, his Summers are being spent in completing the shop construction, building an inventory and devising new items

The family displays a logo depicting the area in which they live "Buck Alley" crafts and games would be a nice addition under the tree

Dennis says the craftsmen he has met are usually glad to share ideas "They might be more protective if it were their only means of income," he proposed Keeping all the work and hours fun rather than just a chore is a secret of a hobby Dennis shares a plan for the fish trivet crafted in 1/2 inch thick mahogany

Pair wins entomology scholarships

CHRISTIANA, Del. — Two University of Delaware freshmen majoring in entomology have received $500 scholarships for the present academic year

Caroline Jones of Hockessin is the recipient of a Delaware Pest Control Association Scholarship. A graduate of Christiana High School, she is interested in a career which involves outdoor work, possibly with a government agency serving farmers and homeowners. She says she feels the job options should be good with her major

William Hudson of Newark received the Homer Gravenor Scholarship (named for the donor, a Delaware pest control operator) A graduate of Dickinson High School, Hudson says a class in medical biology there kindled his interest in entomology. He also feels career prospects should be good with this major

Both awards are available to freshmen entomology or entomology-plant pathology majors at the university who are Delaware residents Their purpose is to encourage students to study these fields
