

Another 4-H year ends

Cindy Risser became state gardening winner for 1980. She attended National 4-H Congress in Chicago in November.

Lancaster held its first county sheep roundup this year. Shown is Gerald Rohrer holding the silver plate he received for being chosen as recipient of the Supreme Champion Ewe award.

Sarah Brubaker, a busy 4-H'er and president of both the beef and sheep clubs, received first place honors in the Ladies Lead competition at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition in October.

This past year was a busy one for Deb Enders. She placed second in the state in the individual 4-H competition for archery. As a leader, Deb hopes to have a county archery team to compete in the state contest next year for Lancaster County.

Achievement Day was a busy one for 4-H'ers all over the county. One of the least talked about projects in 4-H, singing, was given special recognition this day. John Charles took first place in the talent competition with a cello solo. Second went to Kathy Shenk.
