

Ag royalty to grace 1981 Farm Show

HARRISBURG — The royalty of Pennsylvania agriculture will be on hand in Harrisburg, Jan. 11-16, to greet the hundreds of thousands of visitors at the 65th annual Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

These honored dignitaries are not from the royal families of Europe but in fact fellow Pennsylvanians chosen to represent the many farm commodities produced in the state.

According to State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell, "The kings, queens and princesses were chosen for their enthusiasm, knowledge and desire to promote their individual products, and Pennsylvania agriculture as a whole.

"Pennsylvania is the agricultural leader of the northeast. The efforts of the many people these men and women represent make it possible for our agricultural industry to grow."

Hallowell noted the theme for the 1981 State Farm Show is "Pennsylvania Agriculture - We're Growing Better," in recognition of the tremendous strides being made by the state's farm and agribusiness industries.

Hallowell said the commodity queens and princesses will be honored guests at a dinner on the eve of the Farm Show and at a brunch on Sunday.

During grand opening ceremonies the queens and princesses will be escorted into the large arena at the Farm Show Complex by young men from local 4-H and Future Farmers of America chapters.

Following the ceremonies and for the remainder of the Farm Show, the commodity representatives will man booths where visitors can sample a variety of Pennsylvania farm products.

Last year's Outstanding Farm Show Family award went to Clyde W. McConaughy, Jr. and family, owners of Mahoning Creek Farms, Smicksburg.

Pennsylvania Commodity Queens will be greeting Farm Show visitors with special product samples.
