trying to buy hogs that are too small and recommended that they buy pigs weighing 55 pounds or better, especially in winter

"These pigs are much more adaptable and able to cope with stress factors better than the smaller hogs," he explained

Other topics covered during the day long affair included

Improving reproduction efficiency discussed by Keiphart, prevention and control of Pseudorabies, Rhinitis, TGE, 1 and mange, discussed by Aplegate, and how to use the state diagnostic laboratory at Summerdale and an update on Pseudorabies by Patricia McQuiston, laboratory veterinarian

Herb Shick, treasurer of the Pennsylvania Pork Producers presented a slide presentation entitled 'Working for You - The Pennsylvania Pork Producers, which explained the areas for which the check-off money is being used and the increased thrust the pork producers are putting on advertising
