youth award sponsored by C.T. Fuller, was Robin Weatherby, Middletown. Riding her Quarter Horse, Bit Of Brick, Weatherby came in first in the season's scoring for Trail and Bridle Path Hack 14-18.

A lifetime membership in KQHA was awarded to Sally Winkelman, Malvern, presented for her outstanding contribution to the Quarter Horse industry. Winkelman is the ninth recipient of the special award presented since the Association's formation in 1971.

Last year's lifetime membership went to KQHA President Wilda F Carr. She will be serving in that office again this year, assisted by Vice President John Glick, Secretary-Treasurer Pat

Stephens, and Corresponding Secretary Barbara Spera. The 1981 Board of Directors includes: Scott Buckwalter, Dick Herr, Chester Immel, Terry Ressler, Frank Spera, Peter Weatherby, Sally Winkelman, C.T. Fuller and Gary Sayers.

According to Carr, the ten-year-old association was formed in order to save Quarter Horse breeders, striving for high-point awards, from having to travel across the state to sanctioned shows recognized by the Pennsylvania Quarter Horse Association.

"There was some initial rivalry between the two separate organizations," commented Winkelman, "but there isn't any more." She pointed out many Quarter Horse breeders belong to both associations.

Pottstown; Leslie Brechbiel, Waynesboro, Chris Werner, Elverson; and Robin Weatherby, Middletown; in front, Jennifer Warren, Elverson.

Sally Winkelman, left, was honored for her interest in the Quarter Horse industry on Saturday. KQHA President Wilda Carr presented her with a lifetime membership. Carr, right, was also presented with an officer's plaque.

KQHA holds two shows in Lit'tz each spring and fall, and sends a youth team to the Quarter Horse Congress in Ohio.
