

Potter Holstein Club elects directors

ULYSSES — Kevin Risser, Genesee, and Jack Thomas, Ulysses, were elected directors at the annual dinner meeting of the Potter County Holstein Club, held Monday, at the Penn York Camp, Ulysses. Fifty-nine persons attended.

Risser and Thomas were chosen to replace Robert Greene, Roulette, and Titus Risser, Genesee, whose terms expired.

Jay Gooch, Coudersport RD, state director, gave a report that the State Championship Show will be held at Bloomsburg, September

2 and reminded members that there were changes in the base dates for showing.

Doug Hershey, membership coordinator of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, spoke and showed slides on how to promote and sell registered Holsteins.

The following door prizes were awarded: jumper cables from Ulysses Agway to Jack Knowlton; vice grips from Genesee Hardware to Kris Smoker; milk replacer from Coudersport Agway to Gay Hamilton; milk replacer from Vigortone by George and Bonnie Barker to Shirley Tice, and a fire extinguisher from Coudersport Agway to David Smoker.

Tom Gooch, Keystone Harvestore salesman, awarded Harvestore hats to Dan Tice and George Barker, a salt and pepper set to Bonnie Barker and a thermos to Wayne Torrey Semen from United Semen Exchange representative, Jay Gooch, was awarded to David Angood and Leon Tice; Youngs' Treat and Grow calf medicine from Gordon Prior to Jon Vincent and a box of felt tip pens from the Cooperative Extension Service to Dennis Watson.

Following the dinner meeting a board of directors' meeting was held to reorganize for the year.

Officers elected were Kevin Risser, chairman; Ivan Kibbe Jr., Harrison Valley; vice chairman; Alvin Miller, Ulysses, secretary-treasurer; Jay Gooch, Coudersport RD, state director and sales chairman; Dennis Smoker, Genesee, show chairman; Jack Thomas, Ulysses, youth chairman; Sam Crossley, news reporter; George Barker, Ulysses, breed improvement chairman; Tom Kibbe, Harrison Valley, special activities chairman and Jay Gooch, membership chairman. Selected for the show committee were Dennis Smoker, Jay Gooch and Kevin Risser.

The next meeting of the Potter County Holstein board of directors will be March 23, at 8 p.m. at the Ulysses Bank. Plans will be made for summer activities and judges will be selected for the dairy shows.

Ephrata young farmers

A dairyman, Bollinger has a milking herd of 50 cows on his 100 acre farm. But he is successfully raising more than corn and milk.

Bollinger has two sons and one daughter who all earned the Keystone Farmer Degree.

Outstanding Community Service Award was presented to Mr and Mrs. Donald Graybill, operators of Triple G market.

They were cited for their support of a number of community projects, especially their work with FFA and 4-H.

Active member award went to Mahlon Eberly, a past vice president and president of EAYFA Eberly also has served as PR director, delegate to the state convention, and chairman of the group's refreshment stand fund-raising project.

Curtis Martin, who farms about 65 acres, was honored as the American Farmer Degree award winner. The award was presented to his father.

A gift certificate was presented to Young Farmer Advisor Charles Ackley and his wife Joy in appreciation for work done and support given in the previous year.

Retiring President Rick Pfautz was honored by the group for the work he did.

Pfautz passed the gavel to new President Gerald R. Martin, R1 Ephrata. Other officers include Clark Stauffer, vice president; Philip Leininger, R2 Denver, Secretary; Ray Beyer, R4 Litz, treasurer, and Gary Eberly, R1 Stevens, public relations director.

Brief talks were given by State FFA Secretary Judy Zimmerman and Cloister FFA Chapter President Tim High.

But the Cloister FFA may have bitten off a bit more than they can chew when they challenged the championship EAYFA volleyball team to a match at some future date.

Earl Stauffer, who Tuesday took over as President of the Pennsylvania Young Farmers, told the group they can expect a color magazine, "Pennsylvania Young Farmer" twice a year, once in the winter and once after the summer meeting.

He also invited all members to the National Young Farmer Institute being held this year in Hershey.

Dates for the National Meeting are December 5 to 9.

Outgoing Region II Vice President Tom Zartman, freshly returned from the California Young Farmer Convention, said fund-raising activities for the National Institute are underway.

Local ag businessmen will be contacted to raise the estimated $226,000 needed to allow Pennsylvania to host a successful Institute, he said.

Fruit, vegetable growers to organize summer market

PHILADELPHIA — The farmers in the Philadelphia Tailgate Market Coalition have extended an invitation to any interested vegetable or fruit growers to attend the spring organizational meeting.

This meeting will take place in Philadelphia at the Archdiocese Building, located at 222 N. 17th Street on Friday, February 20, 1981.

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. We need a few more vegetable growers this year since two new market locations will be opened.

The people in the city have been eager and grateful for the fresh, higher quality produce brought in by the farmers.

Any farmer who would be interested in this marketing program and attending this meeting should contact either Frank Stiles, chairperson, of Monroeville, N.J. at 609/881-3395, or John Shenk, secretary-treasurer of Litz, at 717/626-6194
