first place Aged Cow and Reserve Senior Champion owned by E J Doeberiner and John Parks, Jamestown Parkacres Sun Ivy, an August, 1974 daughter of Pennstate Ivanhoe Star, also received the Best Udder award and the High Production Award in her class. Her 305-day lactation record was 24,991 pounds milk with 1137 pounds fat.

Judge Keene deloerated some time when placing Ivy's class — finally moving her up from third place to first. He emphasized he liked her dairyness and her superior udder, and had to start the class with her despite her smaller scale.

The Junior Champion, according to Judge Keene, was an outstanding heifer but could not compete for the grand championship with the two senior cows.

Corlan-Farms Pete Penny was the first place senior yearling heifer, bred and owned by Delmer Cornman, R2 Mechanicsburg. Born November 21, 1979, the top Junior is sired by Straight-Pine Elevation Pete out of Corlan-Farms Ultimate Patsy.

The Reserve Junior Champion trophy went to Apache Royal Heritage-ET, the first place junior yearling. This Elevation daughter, born March 7, 1980, is owned by Apache Holsteins, Conrad Stanworth, Chuck Will, and Lynn and Bonnie Miller.

The Grand Champion Holstein Bull banner went to the entry from Berks County's Kerchenhill Holsteins. Indianvale Kerchenhill Kona was the first place senior bull calf, calved September 27, 1980.

According to Raymond Seidel, Kutztown, owner of the bull, Kona is out of Indianvale Star Sebrina, a cow he purchased last year at the Berks County Sale. The bull champion is sired by Plushanski Persuader.

In the group classes, Singing Brook Farms, owned by Obie Snider and family of Imler, took blue ribbons in Best Female Bred & Owned By Exhibitor, Senior Get of Sire (Pacnama Double Tribune), and Best Three Females.

The Produce of Dam blue ribbon went to Dyar-Acres Holsteins, Shippensburg for Dyar-Acres Rag Apple Elsie. And the Dam & Daughter class was topped by Kerchenhill Holsteins with R-R-Mooktown Lady, dam, and R-R-Mooktown Ideal Lady, daughter.

In the Club Herd competition, Bradford County's six head led off the class, followed by Tioga, Cumberland, Crawford, and Lancaster.
