

Cereal Crops Day coming July 1

UNIVERSITY PARK — New varieties of wheat and oats plus improved management tips for these crops will be featured during the 1981 Cereal Crops Day to be held July 1 at the Agronomy Research Farm of Penn State on Route 45 west of Pine Grove Mills. The program gets underway at 9:30 a.m. and continues to 4 p.m.

"We plan to show several new varieties of small grains that should improve yields and profits for Pennsylvania farmers," stated Chairman Elwood Hatley, Extension agronomist in the College of Agriculture.

Hatley said Cereal Crops Day will include plots demonstrating management of small grain crops. Included will be aspects such as best rates of seeding as well as rates for applying nitrogen fertilizer.

"Our plots at the Agronomy Research Farm will also show experiments to control diseases of small grains, including seed treatment and fungicide trials," he added.

Researchers from Penn State's newly organized Center for Cereals Research will be on hand to discuss the various aspects of small grain crop management — from planting through harvesting.

Hatley indicated the goal of the Penn State Center for Cereals Research is to improve yields and profits from small grains in Pennsylvania and the Northeast region. This will include development and use of improved varieties, intensive cultural practices, and integrated pest management.

Lunch will be available at cost on July 1. The Cereal Crops Day is expected to attract a number of interested farmers, seed dealers, and county agents.

The evening of July 1 will be devoted to a steak cookout. People wanting to attend the steak cookout are asked to send their names and addresses to Hatley no later than June 25. The address is Elwood Hatley, 106 Ag Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802.

A tour of plots treated with weed killers will be carried out at the Agronomy Research Farm on July 2. New weed control chemicals for both corn and alfalfa will be discussed.

If you wished to be 110% certain of heat-safe, germ-free milk... you would have designed Nu-Kool

Everything you want, plus a few new wrinkles. We asked dairymen what they were looking for in a bulk milk cooling tank. They told us a cooling tank should cool milk safely and effectively. Agitate milk thoroughly. Be easy to mount outdoors, indoors, or bulkheaded. Compact. Easy to read milk levels. And of course, it should be durable.

The Nu Kool gives you all that plus a few extras. In 500 to 4,000 gallon capacities.

Extra agitation blades, double-thick insulation plate keep milk cool and fresh.

We added an extra set of mid shaft blades to assure thorough milk agitation. The cold wall surface is far stronger than the competition, for durability and maximum insulation. The cold wall is precision "dimpled" providing a definite consistent refrigerant chamber within the cold wall.

The convenience you like. A stainless steel, glass bead finish means easy cleaning. All washing lines are internal. Spray ball cleaning assures bacteria free conditions.

The top mounted tank cover swivels to the side instead of upward, for low ceiling installation. The capacity gauge can be mounted externally.

The durability you demand.

Above all the Nu Kool cooling tank is built to last. Both the cold wall and inner tank liner are roll formed to precision diameters before spot welding, so stresses and fatigue failures are eliminated. Every tank is tested for leak free performance and backed by a strong warranty.
