

Five compete for Horse Queen title

LITITZ — Five young ladies representing eastern Pennsylvania are putting their riding skills to the test this weekend as they compete for the title of Keystone Quarter Horse Association Queen.

Participating in special riding competitions which are part of the annual KQHA three day spring show to be held at Lower Hopewell Farm, near Lititz, in Lancaster County, the girls will be judged on their horsemanship as well as their appearance and personality. They are also required to compete in a written test quizzing their knowledge of the horse world.

Contestants for the royal title include: Robin Remington, 19, R1 Coplay, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Remington; Donna Fenza, 19, R4 Glen Mills, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fenza; Robin Weatherby, 19, Middletown, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Weatherby; Kim Burrell, 18, R2 Orefield, the daughter of Carol Burrell; and Tamara Woitas, 18, Mullica Hill, N.J., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gunther Woitas.

Winner of the queen contest, announced on Sunday, will go on to compete for the title of American Quarter Horse Queen at the national Congress to be held this October in Ohio.

Weatherby, and Tamara Woitas. After three days of riding and answering questions on horsemanship, the new queen will be crowned on Sunday afternoon.

P & S fines N.J. livestock dealer $1025

INDIAN MILLS, N.J. — Terry W. Harker, Indian Mills, N.J., has been fined $1,025 by the U.S. District Court in Newark for operating without an adequate bond or registration as required by the Packers and Stockyards Act, administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Harker, who is now properly registered and bonded, operates as a dealer buying and selling livestock in commerce in New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

James L. Smith, P&S official, said dealers and market agencies buying and selling livestock in commerce have to register with USDA and file an adequate bond to secure their livestock obligations.

The P&S Act is a fair trade practices law administered by USDA's Agricultural Market Service. It promotes fair and open competition in the marketing of livestock, meat and poultry.
