

Lancaster 4-H day camp held

These 4-H'ers concentrate on making their block prints at one workshop during day camp. The prints were then transferred to paper and each child went home with a treasure.

LANCASTER — A record 145 4-H'ers showed up in Lancaster County Park, Tuesday, to enjoy the somewhat lower temperatures and perfect summer weather as they participated in the fun and fellowship known as 4-H Day Camp.

Ten adult leaders and thirty teens provided the leadership for the 8-12 aged group which thrived on the balmy weather and wide open spaces at the park.

According to County 4-H Agent Nancy Meyers, the 4-H'ers were divided into four color-coded groups, and took part in each of four workshops. The physical fitness trail at the park had the 4-

H'ers exercising and stretching unused muscles.

Organized games and a block printing workshop proved popular. In a nutrition workshop the youth played games relating to good nutrition and made orange Julius drinks which they had the pleasure of sampling.

After a bag lunch, participants hiked to the pool and cooled off with swimming. It added up to a great way to spend a summer day and show some of that abundant Lancaster county 4-H spirit!—SB
