

Stamy family sweeps Carlisle Fair dairy show

BY BETH HEMMINGER
Staff Correspondent

CARLISLE — Cumberland County dairy producers provided a show of thrilling competition for the Carlisle Fair's open dairy show held last Tuesday evening. Judging the annual event was Paul King, a Holstein breeder in York County. John Stamy, III and family, Newville, stole the Holstein show with their outstanding display of four first place cows — junior two-year-old, senior two-year-old, three-year-old and five-year-old. The Stamy's five-year-old cow was crowned senior and grand champion of the show. After capturing four championship titles, the Stamy's went on to claim several top place group classes, the Best Udder class and Best Three Females.

Delmar Cornman of Corlan Farms, Carlisle, stepped into the limelight with his first place senior yearling to be awarded the junior championship. Mark Naugle, Carlisle, exhibited the reserve junior champion. Cornman and Naugle pulled their top place animals together to win the Junior Get-Of-Sire class.

Junior calf and intermediate calf honors went to Robert Smith, II and Stacy Cornman, respectively. Both winners are from Newville.

Dyar-Acres, Newville, captured top honors for the senior calf and aged dry cow.

Blue ribbon winner in the junior yearling class was captured by Mark Naugle, who also exhibited the first place 3 and 4-year-old dry cow.

Leroy Showaker, Le-Ida Farms, Newville, completed the courtly set in the Holstein show with his twin yearling bulls receiving grand and reserve grand champion.

The senior champion exhibited by Three Springs Farm, Newville was selected by Judge King as grand champion of the Milking Shorthorn show. The farm's entries took blue ribbons in the 2-year-old class, 3-year-old class, 4-year-old class and aged cow class.

Patti Ocker, Shippensburg, exhibited the grand champion Ayrshire.

Christine Young of Three Springs, proudly exhibited the junior champion Milking Shorthorn. Three Springs also claimed their share of the trophies in the group classes, first places junior get-of-sire, best three females, and dam and daughter.

Lucille Ocker and family,

Shippensburg, walked away with top honors in the Ayrshire show, claiming junior and grand champion along with blue ribbon awards in all the group classes.

Mildred Seeds went home to her Top-O-Hill Farms, Dowingtown with numerous awards in the Jersey show and capturing the coveted junior and grand champion awards.

John Stamy III and family, Newville, exhibited the grand and senior champion cow of Holstein Show.

Cumberland Co. holds 4-H Dairy Roundup

CARLISLE — Judge Robert Kauffman, Lancaster County, remarked at last Thursday's Cumberland County 4-H Dairy Show, "Cumberland County 4-H'ers displayed an outstanding group of animals and should be proud to exhibit them at any show."

Michael Dyarman, Dyar-Acres, Newville, captured the coveted crown of 4-H Holstein grand champion with his 5 year-old cow, Dyar-Acres Marquis Elva.

John Stamy, IV repeated his winning performance from Tuesday evening's open show, claiming the reserve grand champion Holstein title with Manor Grove Jake Heidi.

The junior champion award was bestowed upon Stacy Cornman's intermediate calf, followed by Ann Stover, Carlisle, with a senior yearling being named reserve junior champion.

The top place Holstein junior calf was awarded to Robert Smith, II, Newville. Sharon Coraman, Justa Beauty Farm, Carlisle, received the first place award in the senior calf class.

Blue ribbon winner in the junior yearling class was Fred Hoch, Carlisle. Ann Stover captured the first place senior yearling ribbon.

First place junior 2 year-old was captured by John Stamy IV. Rebecca Dyarman went home with two blue ribbon winners — senior 2 year-old and 3 year-old cows.

Sharon Gaisler, Newville, claimed the top 4 year-old spot.

Jeffrey and Douglas McCullough, Newville, proudly went home to their farm with the junior and reserve junior championship awards in the 4-H Guernsey show.

Christine Young, Three Springs Farm, Newville, was awarded the junior and reserve junior champion honors in the 4-H Milking Shorthorn show.

After working for months, weeks, days and hours, the 4-H'ers and their animals were ready for the showmanship and fitting contest. They were divided into four categories: junior inexperienced, senior inexperienced, experienced and honorary. The honorary division were those individuals who had already won the other three divisions.

Winning the junior inexperienced division was Ray Yost and Dean Wagner, both of Carlisle.

Dean Wagner exhibited excellent skills and went on to win the experienced division showman and fitter, along with Ann Stover, Carlisle.

Claiming the honorary title for the second time was John Stamy, IV of Newville.

Cumberland County's 4-H roundup was completed for another year with 40 tired animals and 40 tired, but happy, 4-H'ers. —BH

John Stamy IV received reserve grand champion at the 4-H Holstein Round-up

Ray Yost was the winner of the junior inexperienced division of the Cumberland County Fitting and Showing competition.

Michael Dyarman, had the grand champion winner of the 4-H show.

Ann Stover, Carlisle, was the winner in the experienced division of the Cumberland County 4-H Fitting and Showing Competition.

