building foundation, and areas where the pet sits. Be very careful to follow the directions, and keep your pet indoors until the job is done and the spray has dried. You don't want the pet walking or rolling in the treated areas for several hours.

Some insecticides that kill the immature and adult fleas have no effect against the insect's eggs and pupa resting stage. For this reason, the directions on certain products recommend treatment in three to five days to kill the new generation of fleas. Do not apply flea products more often than the instructions suggest; they are strong chemicals and should be used with care.

Insecticides manufactured for home use should not be used on pets. These products may contain ingredients that can sicken or even kill your pets. Also, cats and dogs react to insecticides differently; a product designed especially for dogs may not be safe for a cat or kitten. It's always best to use a product that is recommended for your type of pet. If you have any questions about treating your pet's flea problem, it's a good idea to talk with your veterinarian. He or she can recommend an appropriate product and outline the best way to use it.

200-bushel capacity. Gleaner dependability.

The L2 Gleaner Combine from Allis-Chalmers. Built with the 200-bushel capacity and the dependability needed to get you through your harvest.

Compare it with competitive combines. The unique Gleaner Combine Sure-Feed System and down-front cylinder assures high-speed harvesting. No over-threshing or under-threshing with complete control of the crop at all times.

Exclusive concave door stone protection protects the cylinder from damaging rocks and foreign objects.

Plus its 2-stage threshing 3-stage separation and 2-stage cleaning mean gentle grain handling for high harvesting efficiency.

Compare threshing, separation, cleaning, capacity, feature-for-feature. Now you can get the better designed features and standard equipment of a Gleaner Combine you've always wanted. With the dependability you can count on.

Gleaner Combines from Allis-Chalmers are better by design. Gleaner is an Allis-Chalmers trademark.
