Hort Show coming Sept. 12-13

UNIVERSITY PARK — Selecting trees, flowers, and shrubs for the home can be fun and educational. A visit to the 68th annual Horticulture Show at the Pennsylvania State University could provide some suggestions. The event will be held September 12 and 13 in the flower gardens along University Drive.

Two circus tents will display ideas and demonstrations ranging from landscape designs to flower arrangements. Tips for vegetable gardening and suggestions for small fruit culture will also be included.

Hours for the Horticulture Show will be from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Saturday, September 12, and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday, September 13. Admission is free.

Patt L. Schurr from Coraopolis will demonstrate ways to incorporate shrubs and trees into a poorly drained yard. Sometimes damp areas occur and create problems, Schurr says. She will show the use of dwarf cranberry trees, winterberry holly, and red stem dogwood for moist conditions.

Paul Roberts from Chalfont and Jeff Jabco from Bellefonte are co-chairmen for 1981. The show is sponsored by the Penn State Horticulture Club in conjunction with the Department of Horticulture and the College of Agriculture. Ernest Bergman and Roland Daniels are faculty co-advisors.

A wide variety of foliage plants will be available for purchase in the sales area. Mushrooms, apple cider, and honey will also be for sale. Profits will be used to cover expenses for the show and provide scholarships and educational field trips for members of the Horticulture Club.
