

York dairy champs wear purple banners well

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

YORK — David King's "Kingstead Ari Tara", a four-year-old 4-H entry, won the open class Holstein show at the York Fair and was named the best uddered entry. "Tara" had previously won the 4-H show last week, as well as championships she took at the York 4-H Round-Up and the 4-H District Show earlier this year.

The 15-year-old son of Paul and Kathy King of R2 Delta, David's other 4-H entry took second place in the four-year-old class. The King family also took first place in the dairy herd class, junior get of sire with an entry sired by Lawcrest Marvex, and junior calf class.

Tapped by judge Jim Shaw for the reserve senior and grand honors was "Bupplynn Marvex Patty," junior two-year-old exhibited by Bupplynn Farms, Seven-Valleys. The Marvex daughter also was chosen second best udder, and best senior female bred and owned.

Yorker Thomas Boyer's senior yearling by Oak-Hillranch Kit was named the junior champion, placing over the reserve in-

Rutter Brothers Dairy of York added yet another grand champion banner to their burgeoning collection of Guernsey awards. Leo Rutter, left, holds the winning aged cow, while Mike Rutter is handling the reserve grand champion for his son, Todd.

Jerry Krone, right, took York Fair open class grand and senior champion Brown Swiss honors with his junior two-year-old sired by Top Acres Stretchy Cleve. Reserve senior and grand went to 4-H'er Mike Welsh with his three-year-old.

Mark Jenkins took six first-places in the York Fair Ayrshire open show, then topped that off with the purple banner for his age cow entry, "Cove Creek Kings Sheila."

David King, center, won his second York Fair Holstein championship in as many days, when his four-year-old by Kingstead Aristotle added the open class win to the previous day's 4-H honors. Leroy Bupp exhibited the reserve grand, a junior two-year-old. Judge was Tim Shaw, Berks County Holstein breeder.

York Fair Shorthorn class awards all went home to Cumberland County with the Young family, of Three Springs Farm. With their grand champion female are, from left, Linda Young, Jimmy Young, and Terry Mentzer.

intermediate calf, a Marvex, exhibited by 4-H'er Debra Wolf of Abbottstown.

Perennial Guernsey winners, Rutter Bros. Dairy of York, took the purple banner for their aged cow sired by Eber Lea Farms Wistar.

"Eber Cindy Win Sandra" topped reserve senior and res. grand champion, a herdmate owned by 4-H'er Todd Rutter, the third generation of Rutter brothers involved in the registered Guernsey operation. Todd's reserve, "Rutter Bros. Nelson Eager," had won last week's 4-H show.

The Guernsey junior championship was a preview of the grand honors, with Rutter Bros. capturing the top spot with a senior yearling and Todd Rutter in the reserve slot with his senior yearling entry.

Mark Jenkins, Pylesville, Maryland, was named Ayrshire senior and grand champion with his "Cove Creek Kings Sheila," also selected the best uddered cow in the division.

Reserve senior and grand honors went to Joey Welsh, East Berlin, with a junior two-year-old.

(Turn to Page D3)

Veteran Jersey breeder Mille Seeds captured another championship with her pleasing senior two-year-old "Top-O-Hill Milestone Tempty." Top-O-Hill Farm took all the Jersey champion awards at the York Fair's open show.