

Ephrata Fair

East Earl. She's a junior at Garden Spot.

And our trio of nights wind up with the baby beef show on Thursday.

Judge Henry Gruber, of A and B Packing, Allentown, who is as much a showman as the exhibitors, kept the competition moving along rather briskly.

He even had a helper to hand out the ribbons. State Sec. of Agriculture Penny Hallowell dropped into the fair and stuck around to watch the beef judging.

Another sidelight to the beef show centered on Pam Wenger, daughter of State Rep. Noah Wenger, who stood on the sidelines with Secretary Hallowell.

But all in all, it was "Herr" night for Barb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herr, R1, Narvon.

"We're going to go right home and call her at Penn State," the proud father explained.

The winning Angus, a lighthheavy at 1190 pounds, came from Rally

Farms, Dutchess County, N.Y. It was bought there as a 300-lb. calf.

Although it was Barb's steer, brother Chris has a half interest in it and thus had a real stake in his substitute showing.

There were a few other Rally steers in the show, including the reserve grand champ of Emily Weaver and that of Margaret Herr, younger sister of Barb and Chris, who showed to a third in the light heavies.

Barb's grand champ was shown earlier at the New Jersey Field Days and finished second in its class to the reserve champion. Margaret's was Angus champ at New Jersey.

Now, it's off to the Keystone for the Herr grand champ.

Gosh, I wonder how Barb did in her biology final.

She couldn't have done better though than her steer some 150 miles away beneath the lights at Ephrata.
