Estate planning series set

MEDIA — A series of three meetings on Estate Planning is being offered by the Delaware Co. Cooperative Extension Service, says Greta C. Vairo, Extension Home Economist.

They will be held at the Del. Co. Campus of Penn State at 25 Yearsley Mill Rd., Lima, on Wednesday evenings, October 14, 21 and November 4 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The campus is located north of the Granite Run Mall on Route 352.

To register send a check for $5 ($8 per couples) made payable to D.C.E.S. to Greta C. Vairo, Penn State Extension Service, Rose Tree Park, 1521 N. Providence Road, Media, Pa. 19603. Include your name, address and phone number.

Even though you may not own a huge estate of several hundred acres and a mansion, chances are, you own much more than you realize. Do you own real estate, stocks, bonds, business assets, or insurance? Do you have children? Do you own a business? Do you have a retirement program or pension plan? If you answer yes to any of these questions, then you need estate planning.

Values of assets have increased markedly during the past 20 years, especially real estate. Many individuals own more than they realize, and may be unaware that they have a problem. Families with young children may have a serious problem in the care of children in case of the death of parents.

How does a family determine whether they have estate problems? First it is necessary to determine the objectives of the family. What kind of financial security is needed for your retirement years? What security is needed for a surviving spouse? Do you wish to minimize estate taxes at the time of death? Do you have minor or handicapped children who need a guardianship if both parents die?

Do you have a business that you want to remain in the family? Are there family heirlooms you want certain children to receive? Is there reason to leave more to one child than another? Do you want to prevent your children from fighting over your estate when you are gone? Do you have the cash liquidity to meet estate costs and taxes? Are you willing to have the state inheritance law determine your estate distribution? Although it may not be a pleasant chore, it is to your advantage to make rational decisions now about the disposal of your assets.
