The Champion Pen of Feeder Pigs was shown by Christian Seaman of R1, Grantville. The pigs were York-Duroc Crossbreeds with an average weight of 64 pounds. With Christian is Judge Henry Gruber.

The top selling feeder pig was owned by Christian Seaman. It sold to John Wagner for $80.

The Grand Champion Junior Barrow was shown by Donnie Sheiss of Chambersburg. Donnie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Sheiss.

The Reserve Champion Pen of Feeder Pigs belonged to Charles Smith of Smith's Hog Farm, Washington, Pa. These pigs were a Chester White-Duroc cross.

But these factors didn't dampen the atmosphere at the swine shows which ran through Tuesday.

Friday kicked off the feeder pig show and sale with Christian Seaman of Grantville earning the Champion Pen of Feeder Pigs title. The pigs were a York/Duroc cross with an average weight of 64 pounds. They sold to John Wagner of Manheim.

The top selling feeder pig was from the pen of champions shown by Seaman. This pig sold for $80 to John Wagner.

The Seaman family showed the Reserve Champion pen at last year's feeder pig show and sale also.

Reserve Champion Pen of Feeder Pigs belonged to Charles Smith of Smith's Hog Farm, Washington, PA. Two of these Chester White/Duroc Crossbreeds sold to Harry Bachman of Anville for $56 each and the other three sold to John Wagner for $44.

The grand champion junior barrow was shown by Donnie Sheiss of Chambersburg. This hog went on to compete for the overall championship title in the open show and earned reserve grand champion honors.

The grand champion barrow on foot was shown by John Strawbridge of Strawbridge & McCleary of Stewartstown.

Strawbridge's entry, a mediumweight Yorkshire barrow, was previously named open champion barrow on-foot and champion of the Yorkshire show.

The reserve open champion barrow on-foot title went to Penn State University for their mediumweight Duroc barrow.

In the open barrow competition, James Parlett of Airville exhibited the champion and reserve champion Chester White barrows while Penn State showed both champion and reserve in the Duroc competition.

Dennis Grumbine of Myerstown showed the champion Berkshire barrow—a 210-pound lightweight.

Todd Bannecoff of Kutztown showed his second place lightweight to the reserve spot in the Berkshire breed.

In the Hampshire breed, Strawbridge & McCleary scooped up the awards, earning champion and reserve champion. The 225-pound champion Hampshire was the reserve champion at the Md State Fair.

Randy Roberts copied Strawbridge's ability in the Poland China breed, capturing both champion and reserve champion titles. Roberts reigns from Hillsboro, Ohio.

Roberts also earned the reserve champion title in the Spotted Swine breed.

Keith Bard of Lewistown earned champion honors for his mediumweight barrow in the Spotted Swine show.

The champion Crossbred barrow was shown by Penn State University and the reserve shown by Steve Strauss of Ephrata.

In the truckload competition, Daryl Sheiss of Chambersburg showed the champion truckload of six hogs weighing 216-240 pounds, while Penn State was named the reserve winner with their entry.

Henry Gruber of Allentown was the judge for the open barrow show and Vernon Hazlett, Penn State University herdsman, served as judge for the breeding swine classes.

In the Berkshire competition of the breeding show, Dennis Grumbine of Myerstown exhibited the champion and reserve champion boar. His winning boar was Fairview Stud 10-9, a March boar sired by Rock 9-S 9-1.

The champion gilt was shown by Garland Gantt & Family of La Gambrills, MD. This gilt was G.G. & F Miss 81, sired by G.G. & F Laddie 14-4.
