Block to visit Latin America

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block will visit Brazil, Argentina and Venezuela April 27-May 6 for a series of discussions with foreign government, trade and industry officials on mutual trade problems and opportunities for U.S. export expansion.

Block will be accompanied by the U.S. agribusiness group.

He said South America is a large and growing market for U.S. agricultural exports, with shipments in fiscal 1981 valued at $2.9 billion, up nearly a fourth from the previous year.

"Venezuela, for example, imported nearly $900 million worth of U.S. agricultural products last fiscal year," Block said. "And our market in Brazil was worth $843 million, including more than $500 million in wheat."

Noting that Brazil and Argentina also are major agricultural exporters, Block said he will be seeking support for U.S. efforts in doing away with barriers to free trade and unfair trade practices, emphasizing the European Community's use of export subsidies. He will also check the condition of the Brazilian soybean crop.

On his return trip, Block will stop in Jamaica to meet with Jamaican officials and to attend a meeting of U.S. agricultural counselors and attaches stationed in the Western Hemisphere. During these meetings, Block will discuss President Reagan's recently announced Caribbean Basin Initiative.

The Caribbean Initiative aimed at helping countries in the region strengthen their economies and become stronger trading partners with the United States. In fiscal 1981, U.S. agricultural exports to the Caribbean totaled $806 million, while U.S. imports came to $557 million.

USDA officials accompanying Block on the trip will be William G. Leshner, USDA's assistant secretary for economics, and Richard A. Smith, administrator of USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service.
