

This 'golden' tobacco

loss. He harvested his, but did not sell it for the going rate of 28 cents. By holding it over, he got 32 cents for it the next year.

● Having tried different varieties over the years, Barley says, "I've always had a variety I like, but I wait until new ones prove themselves. I always leaned towards the Greider tobacco."

Barley retired from the dairy business in 1969. Now he says jokingly, "Some days I say I'm retired and some days I'm re-hired." He calls himself the "go-fer" and likes to be available to go for parts, cows or feed if John and Abram need an extra hand. He still spends a lot of time in the hay fields, saying, "If hay gets wet it bothers me as much as them because I know the value of good hay. I still do tractor work and a lot of running errands."

He has also begun a new hobby for himself. Over the last 10-15 years he has collected farm wagons, harnesses and other related items. "I always said, 'Someday I'd like to have a pair of mules to play with.'" Well, just a few weeks ago, he got a pair of mules, Kate and Rose, and he has been playing with them since, to the delight of grandchildren and friends.

He says, "Mules have something horses don't have. When they cultivated they had a smaller foot and didn't tramp as many stalks out, and a mule was smart enough not to overeat and never to step on your foot." His fondness for mules is a result of having started in farming with mules.

He re-assembled some of the harnesses he collected, hitched the mules to a prized Studebaker wagon, and now goes all over the farm.

In retirement, Grace is busy too, taking pleasure in doing things for her children and grandchildren and enjoying many flowers. She also helps at the dairy farm when tours are expected.

Members of Stehman United Methodist Church, Abe recently retired after 25 years of teaching Sunday School, but continues to serve on the trustee board.

Another talent of which this seventy year old man is proud: "I can still stand on my head."

For Abe and Grace their retirement years are ones of enjoying the rewards of hard work, and of watching their grandchildren learn the responsibilities and pleasures of work in the tobacco fields.

Grandparents Day is still several months off, but these two are honored every day by their grandchildren who share in a treasured way of life.

PHBA to hold banquet

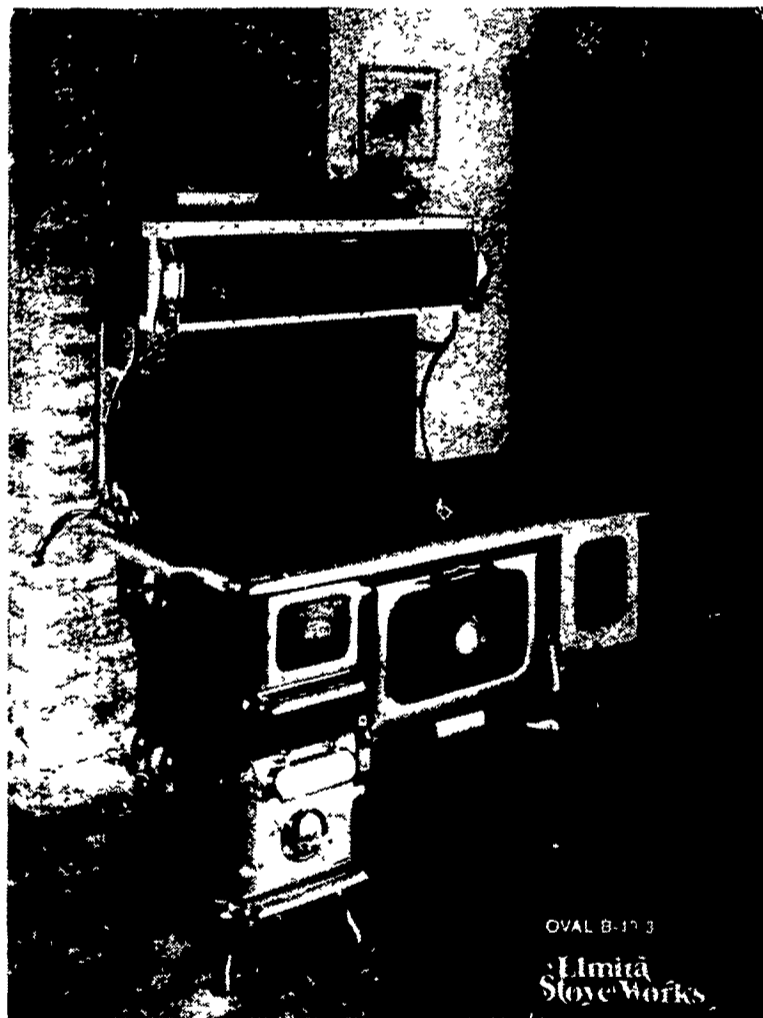

KENNETT SQUARE — The Pennsylvania Horse Breeders' Association will host the third annual Iroquois Awards Banquet Thursday, May 13, at lovely Longwood Gardens in Kennett Square. The affair will honor the state's leading breeders and the breeders of all Pennsylvania-bred stakes-winners of 1981.

The banquet will begin with a cocktail hour at 5:30 p.m. in Longwood's elegant ballroom. Dinner will follow at 7:15 and will be catered by the esteemed Jimmy Duffy's.

The banquet will be preceded by the PHBA's annual meeting. Business will include a review of the Breeding Fund in 1981 and a projection of its outlook for '82. The meeting will be held at 2:30 p.m. at New Bolton Center, Kennett Square.
