

Eight employees receive USDA's highest award

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Eight employees of the U.S. Department of Agriculture received Distinguished Service Awards, USDA's highest honor, at ceremonies here Wednesday. Secretary of Agriculture John R.

Block presented the awards, while U.S. Sen. Robert J. Dole (R-Kan) delivered the keynote address during USDA's 36th annual honor awards ceremony. Two USDA units also will receive the Distinguished Service Award:

—the Florida Mediterranean fruit fly eradication team, Tampa, Fla., for its work during the 1981 Medfly infestation in Tampa; and —the Plum Island, N.Y., Animal Disease Center foot-and-mouth disease vaccine team for pioneering work in achieving the first production—through gene splicing—of an effective vaccine against a disease in either humans or animals. Superior Service Awards, USDA's second highest honor, will be presented to 73 individuals and 19 groups.
