

Lebanon dairy

(Continued from Page A32)

many farm families, have found a way to teach children financial and management responsibilities through owning cattle. David says, "Dad gives us two free heifers and we get their calves. After that we have to buy them if we want more. Dad gave me a good one, didn't he?"

Brown Swiss competition also found a family sweeping top honors in 4-H, FFA, and Open shows. Gary Mase swept all champion awards of the FFA competition. The Champion cow, 3-year-old Amy Marauder Annie, was bred by Gary and was the Champion of last year's Brown Swiss FFA competition. "Annie" also won Reserve Champion honors of the 1981 Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show and is estimated to produce over 16,000 pounds of milk this lactation.

Gary's sister, 10-year-old Judy Mase, captured Champion Brown Swiss of the 4-H competition and Reserve Champion honors of the open show with Jessie Improver Lena, a senior 2-year-old, bred by Gary.

Sue Bomberger of Annville took home the open show Grand Champion Jersey title with her home-bred Quicksilver daughter. The 7-year-old cow produce over 13,000 pounds of milk her last lactation.

Jersey FFA competition found Marlin Deaven, a junior at Northern Lebanon High School, exhibiting the Grand Champion. The 5-year-old daughter of Golden Faithful has won several county championships for the Deaven family in the past years.

The 4-H Jersey championship

(Turn to Page A34)

Reserve Champion Holstein of the Lebanon 4-H Show was exhibited by 10-year-old David Lentz, son of Bob and Sandra Lentz of Lebanon.

Grand Champion Holstein honors of the Lebanon 4-H competition were captured by 12-year-old Audrey Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Arnold of Schaefferstown.

The Champion Guernsey of the Lebanon FFA Show was exhibited by Susan Heilinger Werner.

The Grand Champion Ayrshire of the open show was exhibited by the Dale Maulfair family of Jonestown. Exhibiting the home-bred cow were Dale, left, Dale Jr., center, and Pattie Maulfair, right.

Taking home Champion Guernsey honors in the 4-H competition were Stacy Habecker and her Intermediate Calf, Lebanon Valley Star Sharon.

Heather Hernley took home top honors in the Ayrshire competition of both 4-H and FFA shows. Left, Carmelle Hernley, Heather's sister exhibits the FFA Champion and Open Reserve Champion while Heather, right, holds the 4-H Champion.

Champion Brown Swiss of the 4-H Show and Reserve Champion of the open show was exhibited by 10-year-old Judy Mase.