

Crossley wins in 4-H electric project

COUDERSPORT — Luke Crossley has been named as a 1982 Keystone Winner in electric in the State 4-H program.

Luke, son of Sam and Jane Crossley of Coudersport, had to complete a blue form and story about his project area and his other activities while he has been a member of 4-H. He was then called to State College for an interview after which he was named as a state winner in electric.

Luke, 14, attends Coudersport High School, belonged this year to the Sparks 4-H electric club and the North Side Of the Mountain Shepherds Club.

In addition to his electric project, he has also taken model airplanes, sheep, handyman, market lamb, outdoor cooking, Chef's League, small engines, vegetable garden, backyard poultry and leadership projects.

In his clubs he has served as

president, secretary and game and song leader. In his leadership projects he has worked with the younger people in the clubs on their projects. This year he attended state leadership congress.

Some of his local and district activities in 4-H have been project tours, hoagie sales, flower bulb sales, Maple Festival sale, district camp, achievement nights, King contests, roundup, hikes and picnics and kick off parties.

He was top salesman in flower bulb sales in 1978 and was a junior division winner in the county judging contest. He received achievement awards in 1979, 1980, 1981 and 1982.

Luke says of his 4-H involvement, "4-H has contributed to my life by giving me experience in many different areas and has helped me meet new people and go new places."
