

"It's a fact.
I don't pay a dime
to dry my corn."

"For this farm, ear corn picking is still the most economical way to harvest corn. I don't pay a dime to dry my corn, and I can harvest my crop even when the moisture's high.

"A few years ago, we got more than our share of rain. The harvest was way late—mid-January—and I had to pick some corn and crib it at 36% moisture.

"Frankly, I worried about spoilage. But when the crib was emptied, there wasn't two wheelbarrow loads of spoiled corn.

"I'm really sold on ear corn drying in the crib. And as for my New Idea two-row picker, it's hard to beat. I've owned three of them over the past 17 or 18 years. All those years the worst problem I had was a broken conveyor chain, and Avco New Idea made that good—no charge! You can't beat that!"

Fact: Drying costs are higher than ever and going up. More and more farmers are taking another look at crib drying.

Fact: Our two-row Superpicker is available in two models to accommodate narrow-row and wide-row picking.

Fact: Avco New Idea also offers a one-row picker with a husking bed and a one-row "Snapper" for husk-on picking.

Fact: If you need to have shelled corn, just attach an Avco New Idea sheller to our two-row Superpicker.

Fact: Avco New Idea invented the very first, successful, PTO-driven, pull-type corn picker in 1928. Today, more farmers own Avco New Idea pickers than any other brand. That's why Coldwater is known as the "Corn Picker Capital of the World." We made them first. And, we make them last.

Fact: Avco New Idea's Superpickers let you pick for less and dry for free. That means more profit per acre. You really should see them at your Avco New Idea dealer soon.
