

York Fair tags breeding and market beef champs

By Laurie Dobrosky
YORK — The recent York Fair added another list of beef champions to the records as this year's beef competition featured one of the largest junior beef breeding shows. In open competition, South Branch Angus Farm received the champion heifer while Kirk Fischer had the reserve champion heifer. John Eaton of Airville exhibited the reserve grand champion bull.

Supreme Champion Heifer honors with a February 1981 calf. The heifer, exhibited by Tim Kinsley of South Branch Farms additionally captured the Junior Champion and Champion Angus Heifer titles.

Berks County breeder Kirk Fischer took home Supreme Champion Bull honors with his champion Charolais bull.

Wayne and Jay Stough captured the grand and reserve grand champion heifer honors in the Simmental breed with the junior and calf champions.

Other Angus champions included Julie Myers of Wellsville, who exhibited the reserve champion heifer. Dover's Tim Hoffman collected champion bull honors while South Branch Farms claimed the reserve.

The champion and reserve champion Simmental Bull went to Nancy and Jimmy Townsend, respectively.

In Charolais competition, Kent Fischer, Berks County, took home

JDH Farms of Dover walked off with champion bull and champion heifer titles in the Hereford classes. The reserve champion bull

(Turn to Page B33)

Dover's 4-H'er Bob Livingston exhibited his way to the Champion Showman title at the recent York Fair Beef Show. Joining Bob and his Limousin steer in the winner's circle is trophy donor William Dietz of WD Angus Ranch.

This Charolais bull, exhibited by Kirk Fischer, 15, at halter, scored double York Fair victories. The Berks Countian's bull collected Supreme Champion and Champion Charolais bull honors.

Nancy Townsend, 12 of Echo Valley Farms, Brodbeck's is at the halter of her champion Simmental Bull.

Hoffman Angus Farm of Dover exhibited this bull to the champion Angus bull title. Tim Hoffman, at halter, accepts champion accolades from state Angus Queen Tammy Eisenhower of Wellsville.

JDH Farm of Dover claimed both the champion bull and champion heifer titles in Hereford competition. Joann Hausner, is at the halter of JDH's bull champ and is joined by the Pennsylvania Polled Hereford Queen, Kathy Snook of Jersey Shore.

Kenianne Rarick of Reading swept the Shorthorn competition with this champion heifer. In addition, the Berks County exhibitor claimed champion Chianina bull honors with her owned and bred entry.