

York beef champs

(Continued from Page B32)

award went to Tim Livingston of Dover, while Spring Bottom Farm of Fairfield claimed the reserve champion heifer spot. York exhibitors Jamie and Kerry Kohr netted the champion and reserve champion Chianina heifer titles, respectively. Reading's Kenianne Karick notched a grand champion Chianina bull title.

Karick also swept all honors in the Shorthorn division.

The juniors turned out in full force and when the dust settled on the York tanbark, Dover 4-H'er Bob Livingston, 18, was named champion showman. He was backed up by Julie Myers, 15, of Wellsville who captured reserve champion showman honors.

Market steer winners included Chris Shive of Seven Valleys who exhibited her heavyweight Angus x Chianina steer to the grand championship. Airville 4-H'er John Eaton collected reserve grand champion honors with his heavyweight Simmental.

Other weight division champs included: lightweight — Annette Walter, Airville; mediumweight — Edwin Livingston, Dover; light heavyweight — Ray Swartz, Hanover.

In junior breeding classes, Deb Hoffman of Dover exhibited her Angus heifer to first the junior championship and went on to claim grand champion Angus heifer. Chris Shive followed up with reserve grand champion Angus heifer.

Other 4-H heifer championships were collected by: John Hausner, Dover — champion Hereford heifer; Jimmy Townsend, Brodbeck's — champion Simmental heifer; Jamie Kohr — champion Chianina heifer.

John Hausner, 11, and his champion Hereford heifer are joined by other champs in the York Fair 4-H breeding classes. The group includes, Jimmy Townsend, 14, center, with his champion Simmental heifer and Jamie Kohr, 16, right, with his top Chianina heifer.

Tim Kinsley is at the halter of South Branch Farms' Supreme and Grand Champion Angus heifer of the York Fair Open Class breeding show. Kinsley's Angus is a February 1981 bred and owned heifer.

Jamie Kohr reached the top in the Chianina show with this summer class winner that went on to be named overall breed champion heifer.

John and Joann Hausner of JDH Farm, join their champion Hereford heifer in the winner's circle.

This bred and owned Charolais heifer placed ahead of all summer class entries and collected the Champion Charolais heifer title for owner Kent Fischer, 12, at halter.

Spring Grove exhibitor Wayne Stough, Jr., collected junior champion Simmental honors with this heifer.

Airville youth tops

York FFA beef show

YORK — Brenda Walter, Airville, captured several top prizes during York Fair FFA beef competition. Not only was the veteran beef exhibitor named champion fitter, she also won reserve honors in both the beef breeding and finishing categories.

Julie Myers, Wellsville, took two top prizes, capturing the beef breeding championship with her yearling heifer, and earning the master showmanship award. Annette Walter, Airville, won the beef finishing with her light heavyweight, topping sister Brenda's heavyweight entry, the reserve champion winner.

In the lightweight division, Galen Graham topped Julie Myers, while John Eaton, Jr., placed over Annette Walter in the mediumweight class.