

Farmland Preservation ~ It's worth it.

AN END AND A BEGINNING. Every beginning leads to an eventual end and following each end comes a new beginning. Such is the perpetual nature of life itself. And one of the most important perpetual regenerations is that of agriculture. In the photo, taken near Elm, Lancaster County, is captured an example of such a rural revival. The shocks of corn are silent monuments to a season just past. And in the background, a farmer turns the soil to begin a new season. AN END AND A BEGINNING.

ADOPT A HORSE OR BURRO

HERE IN PENNSYLVANIA!

Wild horses and burros removed from western public rangelands are now available for adoption through the U.S. Government's Adopt-A-Horse Program in Lewisberry, PA — just a few miles south of Harrisburg. Animals can be broken for riding, farmwork, or other uses. Coggins-tested, vaccinated for major equine disorders. Adoption fees: $290 per horse, $140 per burro.

Call Frank Goodlander at (717) 938-2560, or mail the attached coupon for free information.

I'm interested in the Adopt-a-Horse Program. Please send me a free brochure and application.
