

Ag Week events

Farmers' Association Legislative Conference at the Penn Harris Motor Inn in Camp Hill. That afternoon, Gov. Thornburgh will officially sign an Ag Day proclamation for the Commonwealth.

Across the border, Delaware also will be honoring Ag Day as Governor duPont signs a statement declaring March 18-24 as Delaware Agricultural Week.

Locally, a National Agriculture Week television special will be shown, entitled "Who will farm the land?" In Harrisburg, York, Lancaster, and Lebanon, the show will air at noon tomorrow. Residents of the Johnstown and Altoona areas can see the show at 7:30 p.m., Monday.

This television special analyzes the current agricultural situation and examines the difficulties facing young people who want to farm. Find more information on the show in a special story on Page D11.

Counties throughout the Commonwealth have adopted the observance of an Ag Day Baby. This celebration, usually coordinated and presented by Penn's Agri Women, present a fruit basket to the family of the first baby born in their county on Ag Day.

According to the Agriculture Day Foundation, the day will feature hundreds of events, from special events at shopping malls to parades and parties.

More than 23 million people are directly involved in agriculture in the United States from production to grocery stores, from slaughter houses to marketing. But it's the farmers who begin this chain and allow the U.S. to boast that agriculture is the nation's number one industry — assets have surpassed the trillion dollar mark.

Because farmers are so efficient, they are able to feed 226 million Americans and still have enough to feed 144 million people abroad.

No other official day in U.S. history will have as many people celebrating as Ag Day will, because, no doubt, every man, woman and child will take a bite of food sometime on Monday.

HEAVY DUTY, HOT DIPPED GALVANIZED FARROWING CRATES

Now At Special Prices

OPTIONAL:
• Adj. Front Door (No Extra Charge)
• Stainless Steel Front Feeder Door

This European style Farmer Boy crate reduces creep crushing because it is narrow at the top and wide at the bottom. This design prevents the sow from turning and ensures that she takes extra care in rising and lying down. The front and back doors open easily and without losing pins, with the new style J pin. The all welded construction, galvanized after fabrication, eliminates sharp edges that can cause injury.
