

Lancaster Farming

VOL. 28 No. 48

Four Sections

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, October 1, 1983

$7.50 per Year

In Quest

At All-American

HARRISBURG — It was a big week in the show ring.

Six dairy breeds paraded through the Big Arena of the Farm Show Complex, along with a host of 4-H and FFA'ers — not only in showing but in judging competition.

And, local fairs are still continuing.

As summer has slipped into autumn, the main show ring season is beginning to wane. But still ahead are Timonium, Louisville, KILE and, of course, Farm Show.

The past summer of shows and those still ahead could well be defined as a time "In Quest of the Blue."

This quest can be followed on the following pages:

of the Blue

A30

A30

A27

A26

A26

A27

Jr. Show

B20

Lori Martin with her grand champion steer at the New Holland Fair.

At New Holland Fair:

One 4-H dynasty ends and another begins

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN
NEW HOLLAND — One 4-H family baby beef showing dynasty may have come to an end at the New Holland fair on Thursday, but another in hog showing may have firmly established itself.

The grand champion steer was shown by 15-year-old Lori Martin, R1 Narvon, whose older brother and sister, Ron and Linda, captured similar titles in the past.

And 11-year-old Kenton Good, R1 Denver, made it two years in a row with the 4-H hog champion.

But look out Kenton, younger brother, Kurtis, 10, had the reserve champion this year. They're the sons of Ezra Good, who wears that same kind of cap so familiar at 4-H and FFA hog sales throughout the state.

And speaking of sales, the Good brothers sold their grand and reserve champions to Hatfield.

Hatfield bidder Doug Clemens noded $4.25 a pound for the grand champion.

"Do you want the reserve champion at the same price," asked Abe Dffenbach, of the host New Holland Sales Stables.

"Sure," was the reply.

So, the Good brothers share a $1,955.00 purse for their pair of 230-pound champions.

Both feeders came out of the operation of Middle Tennessee Livestock Co., Eagleville, Tenn. Kenton's grand champ last year had a similar origin.

Ezra Good, who feeds out about 30,000 head a year, purchases regularly from Mid-Tenn and the youngsters selected their project pigs out of a load.

While only 15, Lori Martin, daughter of Charles and Joyce Martin, R1 Narvon, will likely drop out of the 4-H beef club due to increasing involvement in FFA at

(Turn to Page A24)

BEEF PRODUCERS

Watch for Page D2 on Oct. 15