

Hallowell gets national post

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell was elected president-elect of the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture (NASDA) at its annual meeting Sept. 18-21 in Jackson, Miss.

As president-elect, Hallowell is in line for election to the NASDA presidency in 1984. He has served the organization in the past as a member of its executive board and as president of the Northeast Association of State Departments of Agriculture.

Leonard Kunzman, Director of the Oregon Department of Agriculture was elected president of the Association and James B. Boillot, Director of the Missouri Department of Agriculture was elected vice-president. S. Mason Carbaugh, Commissioner of the Virginia Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services was reelected as secretary-treasurer of NASDA.

"NASDA serves as a liaison among individual states and federal agencies for issues, problems and programs affecting U.S. agriculture," Hallowell said. "Through monitoring legislation and regulations, and maintaining close constant touch with the agricultural interests in Washington, NASDA provides information and assistance."

"The Association, because it represents the top state agriculture officials from all 50 states and four territories, is in a unique position to work with federal agencies, and to remind the nation that agriculture is America's number one industry," he said.

NASDA meets twice each year to review national agricultural developments, meet with agricultural leaders and to adopt national "policy positions" which represent the collective thought of the Association.

"I am proud to accept this honor on behalf of the farm and agricultural businesses of the state," Hallowell said. "Pennsylvania is an agricultural leader and this election demonstrates a recognition of Pennsylvania agriculture's importance in the U.S. agriculture picture."
