

Campbell Wins Pa. Rib Contest

HARRISBURG — Willa Campbell, New Kensington, Allegheny County, put her "hand full of this, and hand full of that" pork rib recipe down on paper and went on to win the Pennsylvania Rib Grand Championship.

The contest, sponsored by the Pennsylvania Meat Marketing Program, was held at the Pennsylvania Farm and Food Show at Point State Park, Pittsburgh, recently.

"It was my family's favorite recipe. I always made it with a hand full of this and a hand full of that, so when I read about the contest I put it down on paper to enter," Mrs. Campbell said.

The secret is in rubbing the ribs with vinegar to tenderize them said the cooking hobbyist who "conjured up the recipe by experimenting. It can also be used for fish or chicken. With beef, I cut down on the brown sugar and add dry mustard."

"Mrs. C's Ribs" won Mrs. Campbell a $50 first prize in the pork division, $100 for the Grand Championship, a $25 meat certificate from Lee Gashel's and Sons, Claysville, and a $20 gift pack from Hatfield Packing Co., Hatfield.

The contest featured use of all Pennsylvania products in two divisions. Finalists were selected on the basis of their submitted recipe, to compete for prizes at Point State Park.

Annie Arnold, Pittsburgh, was the top winner in the beef division with "Annie's Barbecue Beef Ribs." Her delicious recipe won $50, a $25 meat certificate from Kolb & Dickinson Packing, Eighty-Four, and a $20 gift pack from Hatfield Packing.

Honorable mention went to Sonja Levine, Pittsburgh. Her tempting sweet and sour pork ribs won Levine $25 and a $20 gift pack from Hatfield Packing.

Judging the contest were Pennsylvania Pork King Kurt Shriner, Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Queen Sheila Fairbairn and Rose Ferranto of Buona Foods, Chester County.

The Pennsylvania Meat Marketing Program is a cooperative effort among Pennsylvania livestock and agricultural organizations and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. Co-sponsors of the event were Kolb & Dickinson Packing, Lee Gashel & Sons and Hatfield Packing.

The recipe for the Pennsylvania Rib Grand Championship follows

Mrs. C's RIBS

2 cups white vinegar
6 ounce can tomato paste
2 slabs pork ribs (small end)

1 bottle ketchup
2 whole lemons
2 onions (large, chopped)
1/2 teaspoon red pepper seeds
1/2 cup dark brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 cup water
In a saucepan put onion, lemons chopped with water, boil 5 or 10 minutes. Add tomato paste ketchchup, brown sugar, garlic powder and red pepper seeds. Cook until thick as desired.

Rub ribs with vinegar 1 hour prior to cooking, set aside. Barbecue or broil ribs, basting with remaining vinegar and water until almost done, then continue to baste with sauce until well done.

"We're looking for farmers who want to be good managers and make all their efforts pay off."

Ron Feister, V.P.
Agri-Loan Department

"In the Agri-Loan Department of Commonwealth National Bank farming is our business, just like it's yours. Our specialized lending group is agriculturally trained and experienced. We don't just know about farming, we've lived it, and our job is to help farmers like you make the most of your resources. So we have an entire support staff of experts who can analyze your financial data and give us the back-up information we need to help you.

4th Largest in Northeast

"Commonwealth National's Agri-Loan Department is the fourth largest in the Northeast, with $74 million committed to agriculture. But we do more than just lend you money. Our officers are available to assist farmers in solving specific problems and promoting their businesses. We're people who can look at your business objectively and recognize opportunities you may miss because you're so close to it. And we've got information on everything from the most efficient way to buy agrichemicals to where new markets are opening up.

The Personal Approach

"Every farm and every farmer is different, so our lending officers analyze each situation separately. We'll drive out to your farm, take a look at your operation and talk to you about your particular needs. We want to help you make decisions that will increase your profit.

Promoting Pennsylvania Products

"In addition to working with farmers individually, Commonwealth National recognizes the importance of promoting Pennsylvania farm products. For a number of years, we've done annual promotions focusing on one product. In 1981, it was eggs; in 1982, dairy; in 1983, pork. We plan to continue our efforts in this direction for years to come.

Real opportunity

"We see the potential for real growth, real opportunity in farming. And our Agri-Loan staff is keeping abreast of all the new developments, so that as farming becomes more sophisticated, we can give you the financial advice you need to grow and maintain a high level of efficiency.

"If you'd like us to assist you, call us at 717-295-3381 and ask for an Agri-Loan officer."
