

Kenneth T. Moore, Bradford County, with champion Cheviot ewe and Doris Powell holding the Moore champion ram.

Rohrers of Lancaster County include Gerald with champion Southdown ram and Barbara with champion ewe. With their awards is Melissa Trostle, Mid-Atlantic Southdown queen.

Paul Leader, York County, was owner of Reserve Champion Suffolk ram, held by Gordon Roeske, left, and also had the Champion Suffolk ewe, held by Steve Ebersole.

Barb Herr of Nix Besser Farm, Narvon, with the champion Dorset ewe.

Pete Levan of State College with Champion Dorset ram.

FARM SHOW — Livestock activities on Sunday of the Farm Show centered around the small arena with a flurry of activity in the sheep barn.

Pennsylvania Dorset breeders provided a powerful show for judge, Judy Moore of Michigan, to begin the day. The Champion Dorset Ram was shown by Pete LeVan of Nittany Valley Livestock Company in State College. The Reserve Champion Ram was shown by Dick Kuzemchak also of Centre County. Both of these stretchy rams were sired by the Saylor buck who also sired Pete LeVan's Champion Carcass Lamb On-Foot at this year's Farm Show.

The Robert Herr family of Narvon took both the Champion and Reserve Champion Ewe honors in Dorset competition. These ewes were both sired by a Nix Besser home-bred ram.

The Hampshire show found two exhibitors on top throughout. Kevin Vehovic of Barnesboro, Indiana County, exhibited the Champion Ram and Reserve Champion Ewe. Tim and Sarah Fleener of Lancaster county finished the championships with Champion Ewe and Reserve Champion Ram.

Kenneth T. Moore Jr. of Bradford county took all championships and top awards in Cheviot competition.

The Rohrer family of Quarryville also claimed all championships in the Southdown breed. Gerald and Barbara have been very successful in Southdown

(Turn to Page B19)

Hamps Supreme of Indiana County top their breed with Charles Vehovic, left, with champion ram and Kevin Vehovic behind reserve champion ewe.

Sarah and Tim Fleener, of Lancaster, also had twin champs in Hampshires with champion ewe and reserve champion ram.

WEY Shropshires had the champion ewe, held by Greg Snyder, left; and champion ram, held by Lee Wagner.

At three days of age, this little lamb was a huge success as a crowd pleaser during the Farm Show in Harrisburg. Bottle feeding the young Merino ram is his owner, Barbara Falvey of Bedford.