

Seamstresses Win Arizona Trips

GAITHERSBURG, Md. — Two talented Maryland teenage seamstresses parlayed their skills and wool fabric into expense paid trips to Phoenix, Ariz. at the recent Maryland Make It With Wool Contest at Montgomery Mall.

Contestants included 10-year-olds, a grandmother who has been sewing for 45 years, a young man, who made and modeled a classic three piece suit, as well as a school secretary, with five sweater entries, who has been teaching others to knit. Each contestant was required to make and model their entry from wool. Open to all Maryland residents, the competing entries of knitters and sewers came from 10 Maryland counties Awards were presented following a center stage fashion show.

Selected to represent Maryland at the National Make It With Wool Contest will be Junior Contestant; Jody Rice, age 15, a sophomore at Rockville Charles Woodward High School; and Senior Contestant, Ann Hoyniak, age 17, a senior at Eleanor Roosevelt High School in Greenbelt.

Ms. Rice's winning entry was a gray wool flannel, two-piece suit with an asymmetrical closing, pleated, tapered sleeves, and flared skirt. A member of the Montrose 4-H Club, she has been sewing for four years. She has represented Montgomery County at the State Fair Fashion Revue and was 4-H Clothing reserve champion at the Montgomery County Fair. She is studying modeling at Cappa Chelle School, Tysons Corner.

Ms. Hoyniak selected a royal blue wool crepe for a fitted blouse that featured a button front closing, 3/4 length sleeves and scoop neck framed by a white collar. The slim dirndl skirt was in matching fabric.

An honor student, planning a pre-med major in college, she has earned champion honors at the Maryland State Fair for her sewing. As a Prince Georges County 4-H'er, she has coordinated fashion shows at state-wide events and for local groups.
