

Color Your Way

A common story

"I heard the boss say we have something in common. Why did he say that?"

"We're both losing money for him."

Selective Feeder Company's computer-controlled feeding system could put both of these cows back on the payroll. It will feed each cow the amount it needs, based on production and stage of lactation.

You can buy a more expensive system, but you can't buy a better one.

seasons has at least 100 colors that they will look their best in.

Barbara is trained to recognize what colors look best on women, but she understands that some women still prefer a color that may not be in the shade she should wear.

"I don't deal in right or wrong, but in better and best," Barbara said. "If you have that sweater on and feel really good in it, it can't be the wrong color. The color drapes should guide, but not overpower you."

Barbara, who lives at 1062 Huffman Place, believes that once you find the colors that are best for you, the next step is to create a coordinated wardrobe, not only because it will add to your appearance, but it also saves money.

For example, Barbara has a small book which is filled with pieces of material in the colors that she looks best in. When she shops, she takes the book with her and only buys clothes that match other clothes already in her closet. By doing this, according to Barbara, you eliminate the urge to buy something that you have nothing else to wear with.

"It is practical, not vanity," Barbara emphasized.

"If you look put together instead of thrown together, that gives you the confidence to go in the direction that you want to go," Barbara said, explaining how colors and wardrobes can help to influence a person's life.

And while she was talking about confidence and presenting a confident image, Barbara mentioned the way she was taught to walk during her modeling training. "Don't walk like a question mark," she urged. "Walk like an exclamation mark. Walk like you are going somewhere, not like you just came back."

Stretch from the waist up, Barbara suggested, and keep your toes pointed straight ahead.

Barbara has shared her advice with many Farm Women Societies and with participants in various Extension Service events. She also gives a "Looking Terrific at Every Age" course, which is a 10-hour course focusing on color analysis, fashion and design, make up and skin care, visual poise and wardrobe tips.

But after retiring from one successful career and raising her children, why does Barbara want to take on all this new responsibility?

"I know how I felt at 40," Barbara laughed. "We (women) give so much to others that we don't give to ourselves. Women are fantastic givers and they find it hard to give to themselves."

Barbara explained that women take cooking classes to make better meals for their family, they take sewing classes or craft classes to make things for their family or house, but they are hesitant to do anything that is strictly for themselves.

Barbara's class is something a woman can do for herself.

Pick the weeds in your corn you'd like to get rid of...

Then pick Banvel herbicide... the Big Plus...to do the job.

Pre-emergence Banvel tank-mixed with "Lasso" to get broadleaf weeds along with grasses ready and waiting when later weeds germinate

Early layby (in corn up to five inches high) use Banvel at a one pint rate. Stop weeds before they've had a chance to develop. This Banvel overlay controls cocklebur, sunflower, annual morningglory, other troublemakers.

Post-emergence (corn up to 36 inches) Banvel herbicide controls the real problems—like smartweed, velvetleaf, bindweed and seedling Canada thistle.

Before buying a less adaptable herbicide that may be short on performance, check out the Big Plus of Banvel from Velsicol.
