Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

By the time that you read this article, I expect that I'll be up to my ears in strawberries and sugar peas. In fact, I've planted so many strawberries that I don't see how I'll get them all picked by myself. Usually, one day is spent picking berries and the next one picking peas. This year with all of the children gone I'll simply have to do the best that I can by myself.

Speaking of all of our six children now living away from home, I might mention that we've finally hired a herdsman. He is a graduate of Delaware Valley College and we are expecting great things of him. We plan to add to our herd and increase our production in order to cover the cost of an employee. One of our sons also graduated in dairy husbandry from the same college but has gone into a different line of work. However, he does return to the college each year to give a lecture on finances which are his speciality.

My husband is now of retirement age and would like to slow down a bit. He wants to be able to go fishing occasionally and maybe even visit a child or two who are now scattered from Maine to Washington. He has done all of the milking for over 35 years and surely deserves some time off now and then.

At present, his leisure time is spent planning trips to likely fishing spots in nearby places. He and I both enjoy the sport but have a lot to learn. When I held an office job for eight years, I'd often fish in our meadow in the evenings. It was relaxing and when I caught two big suckers at the same time, it was also exciting.

We shall see how everything turns out for us this summer.
