TOM PANTANO

ROY SLAYMAKER

They're The Poultry Specialists With HESSMILLS In Paradise And Unionville

Roy Slaymaker, who is a born and raised Agrarian, has been involved with farming all his life. He paired his interest in general agriculture with good business sense and owned and managed a fresh produce and poultry retail market in Philadelphia for 17 years! Still very much active in the agribusiness community, Roy is president of the Chester County PPAB and has been for the last 6 years.

Tom Pantano is the new poultry assistant with HESSMILLS and has a bachelor of science degree in poultry technology & management with an associate degree in medical laboratory technology. Both degrees were earned at Penn State University. While a student, Tom belonged to the Alpha Gamma Rho National Social Professional Agricultural Fraternity, a well-renowned organization supporting agriculture.

Tom worked with poultry as a hobby and operated an Ad Hoc hatchery for 6 years. His hobby turned vocation, and now he personally supervises the clean-up and disinfection process at a poultry farm in Palmyra. Once the restart program there is completed, Tom will be available to help serve the poultry needs of greater Lancaster and Chester Counties under Roy's management.

Have reservations about restarting your poultry operation? Wondering if your chickens could be feeding and producing more efficiently? If so, talk to the poultry experts with HESSMILLS.
