

Deere introduces high-clearance tractor

MOLINE, IL. — John Deere has introduced a new 75 h.p. tractor with clearance and maneuverability features required for operations in vegetable and specialty crops. The new tractor is the model 2750 high-clearance with mechanical front-wheel drive. With 13.6-38 (R-2) cane and rice tires on front and 13.6-46 (R-2) cane and rice tires on the rear, the 2750 high-clearance provides 27 inches of clearance under the front axle and 22 inches of clearance under the drawbar. This clearance is adequate for such operations as preparing seedbeds, pulling conveyor-belt harvesting equipment, or towing wagons or trailers through fields.

Exclusive John Deere Caster Action™ mechanical front wheel drive provides the maneuverability required for precise steering and tight turns in irrigated, frequently muddy fields. Wheels may be set at 66- or 80-inch tread settings. In the 80-inch tread setting, turning radius is 11.9 ft. with brakes, 14.3 ft. without brakes.

The new John Deere 2750 high-clearance MFWD tractor is powered by a 4-cylinder, 239 cubic inch, turbocharged diesel engine. A top-shaft synchronized creeper transmission with first gear ground speed of under 1/2 mph, standard equipment, is ideally suited for harvesting delicate crops and for many other operations requiring slow speeds.

Other standard features include closed center hydraulic system with 23 gallons per minute pump; independent "live" 540 PTO; Category II 3-point hitch, convertible to Category I; and two-post Roll-Gard rollover protective structure.

New Deere 2750 high-clearance mechanical front-wheel drive tractors have 27 inches of clearance under the front axle and 22 inches of clearance under the drawbar.
