

"I will not single out farmers to bear the brunt of any embargo"

Candidate Reagan made that statement in the 1980 election campaign. And he meant what he said.

In 1981, President Reagan lifted Carter's Russian grain embargo and has since engineered a new five year trade pact with the Soviet Union.

President Reagan also won trade concessions from Japan on beef and citrus, and forced European Economic Community to back off on their price cutting trade practices.

In 1980, Candidate Reagan also promised to curb inflation, remove excess estate and gift taxes, and reduce other taxes. And he has done just that as President.

VOTE REPUBLICAN ★ VOTE AG-LEADERSHIP VOTE Ronald Reagan PRESIDENT

FARMERS & RURAL PENNSYLVANIANS FOR REAGAN-BUSH '84

CO-CHAIRMEN: Mrs. Nellie Crawford, Port Royal and Senator Noah W. Wenger, Stevens

REGIONAL CO-ORDINATORS: J. Calvin Baker, Williamsburg
Willard Kimmel, Shelocta
Ken Boyer, Selingsgrove
Clifford Tinklepaugh, Thompson
Barbara Grumbine, Myerstown
Don Unangst, Greenville

COMMITTEE

Charles R. Altemus	Ralph Dotterer	Joseph Johns	R. Edwin Nehrig	Annette Schucker
I. Hershey Bare	David Fleming	Robert Jones	Jack Post	Richard Smith
John Barley	Amos Funk	Richard C. Kreider	Richard Rhoads	Robert E. Stover
Elvin Brenneman	Charles H. Gable	Mrs. Robert Leonard	Clyde S. Robinson	Jesse Wood
Roy Christman	James Hammond	Ron McMinn	Carolyn Rutter	Woodrow Yeany
Tom Crittenden	Glen Houck	Maurice McWilliams	Enos Sage	Herbert Zeager
Jack Donaldson	Scott Hummell	Ernest Miller	Henry Sanders	Leroy Zimmerman

Paid for by PA AG REPUBLICANS, Dennis Grumbine, president; Nellie Crawford, treasurer

Hunters urged to respect private lands

NORRISTOWN — Almost one-third of Pennsylvania's land, about eight million acres, is open to public hunting according to Montgomery county agent Paul Reber. This includes about two million acres of state forests and over a million acres by the state game commission.

However, despite the availability of such extensive public lands, thousands of Pennsylvanians depend on private land for hunting activities. The large number in combination with the behavior of a few can create conflicts between hunters and rural landowners. Due to these factors, posting of private land continues to increase and is a growing concern to the ethical sportsmen of the state.

Pennsylvania's Hunter Safety Program, the 4-H Shooting Sports Program and the Farm-Game Program, together with law enforcement efforts, should help to lessen the problem of posted lands. In the long run, however, the most important factor in reducing posting will be improvement in the hunter's behavior. As landowners have fewer negative encounters with irresponsible hunters, the incentive for posting land should decrease accordingly. Simple things, such as closing gates and not driving across planted fields, go a long way toward improving hunter-landowner relations.

On a positive note, many landowners who post their land will allow hunting if permission is sought. These landowners seek to control rather than to exclude. Hunters who respect and understand the landowner's right to this control will probably find places to hunt.

Energy seminar on Monday

UNIONVILLE — A seminar on "Cutting Your Energy Costs," emphasizing cost savings through insulation and use of heat pumps, will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. at East Lynn Grange Hall in Unionville. The seminar will be co-sponsored by the Pennsylvania State Grange and Pennsylvania Rural Electric Association. The workshop is free and open to the public.

Planned to be timely for homeowners to prepare for winter, the workshop will cover things consumers can do to save money at little or not cost—insulation, weatherization, stripping and caulking, and areas of federal assistance.

One heating method that can save homeowners in heating costs in the air or groundwater heat pump, to be covered in depth at the seminar. In addition to home heating, heat pumps can provide substantial savings in dairy applications and to heat hot water for domestic use.

Bruce Moyer, energy management specialist for the Pennsylvania Rural Electric Association, will conduct the seminar. Advance reservations are not necessary. More information is available by calling 692-5037, or by calling the State Grange toll-free at 1 (800) 242-9661.

READ
LANCASTER
FARMING
FOR COMPLETE
AND
UP-TO-DATE
MARKET
REPORTS