

Montgomery Co. extension offers space heating seminars

NORRISTOWN — "Space Heating Alternatives" will be the topic of two free evening seminars for homeowners to be held from 7 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 27 at the Montgomery County-Norristown Public Library, Norristown and on Thursday, Nov. 29 at the 4-H Center, Lansdale.

The programs will address the pros and cons of woodstoves and fireplace inserts, kerosene heaters, gas and propane heaters plus electric space heaters. Instructor for the programs is local space heating expert Will Hartzell.

These seminars are a free public service sponsored by the Montgomery County Extension Service in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Energy Center to assist homeowners considering the use of supplemental space heaters.

Pre-registration is encouraged by contacting the Pennsylvania Energy Center toll-free at 1-800-HOT-TIPS or the Montgomery County Extension Service at 215-277-0574 for the Lansdale program.

Penn State Extension Service offers programs on a non-discriminatory basis to all persons without regard to race, color, sex, creed, National origin or age.

Newcastle in Hawaii

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Exotic Newcastle disease — a deadly virus affecting birds — has been confirmed in two pet birds in Aiea, on the Hawaiian island of Oahu.

Both birds, a Moluccan cockatoo and a cockateel, died as a result of the disease, according to Keith Hand, a veterinarian with USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

USDA is investigating the origin of the infection, he said.

Exotic Newcastle disease is a bird and poultry virus that can cause death rates of 50 to 95 percent. It can be rapidly transmitted from bird to bird and premises to premises. The disease poses no health risk to people who eat poultry and eggs; however, it can cause a transitory eye inflammation or flu-like symptoms in people who handle infected birds.
