Know your consumer rights when mail order shopping

COLLEGE PARK, Md. Somewhere Scrooge must be smiling.

Each year approximately 15 percent of the Christmas gifts that shoppers order by mail arrive after the holidays, according to the Federal Trade Commission.

To protect yourself against delayed deliveries, consumer expert Mary Stephenson, a family financial specialist with the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, recommends these tips:

-Deal with reliable firms. When in doubt, check with the Better Business Bureau or the Direct Marketing Association (DMA). A trade association of 2,800 companies in the mail order business. the DMA is located at 6 East 43 St., New York, NY 10017.

McRal Dairy Farm

-Clearly mark your name and address on the order form. Illegible handwriting accounts for more than 20 percent of mail delays. Also, pay by money order, check, or credit card, so you have a record. Never send cash.

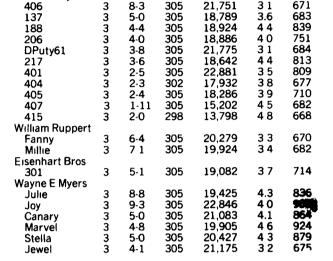

If, despite these precautions your gifts still arrive late, you do have recourse under the law, says Stephenson. Among the protections now afforded to consumers ordering merchandise from the $40-billion-a-year mail order industry:

-The seller must ship your order by the date advertised. If no date is specified in the sales material, the company must ship the goods within 30 days after receiving the order.

-In case of a delay, the seller must notify you and give you the option of canceling the order. If you decide to cancel, you are entitled to a full refund.

-The seller must mail your refund within seven business days if you cancel because of a shipping delay. On a credit sale the company must adjust your account within one billing cycle.

None of these delivery rules, however, apply when you place an order by telephone, warns Stephenson-unless you pay by mail. If the merchandise you want is advertised only through a tollfree 800 number, call and ask for the mailing address. If what you want is available, send a check or money order. You will avoid forfeiting some important consumer rights.
