

New conveyor designed for short spans

FORT ATKINSON, WI — For conveying feed over short spans, Butler Livestock Systems' new Model 40 Volume Belt® Conveyor provides a low-cost solution. It's specifically designed for uses such as short distance conveying to feeders, into and out of mixers, and for use in feedrooms. Maximum length of the feeder is 40 feet.

Built of heavy-gauge, weather-resistant steel, the Economy Model 40 provides a choice of belts: standard, smooth surface belts in 14-inch and 18-inch widths for up to 15-degree elevation; and rough top belts in 14- and 18-inch widths for up to 30-degree elevation.

Economy features include a simple, efficient drive unit; convenient, easy belt tightener; greasable bronze bearings; and a rod type idler roller that eliminates feed buildup. In addition, the Model 40 has greater capacity than chain or auger systems.

A special feature of the Model 40 is the deep-trough, "airborne" belt.

Because 46 percent of the 14-inch belt and 58 percent of the 18-inch belt rides over air — instead of sliding on a metal surface — there's less drag. This lowers energy requirements and reduces wear. The belt's concave shape allows it to carry more feed than a flat belt. For example, the 18-inch belt carries 160 percent more feed than a flat 16-inch belt.

Bank promotes ag lender

HARRISBURG — Milton S. Hefft of Mount Joy has been promoted from senior agricultural lender in Commonwealth National Bank's Agri-Loan Department to assistant vice president and commercial loan officer in the bank's Lancaster Region.

Hefft's office is at the bank's Lancaster Region headquarters, 28 Penn Square, Lancaster.

Prior to joining Commonwealth National bank in 1983, Hefft gained credit and loan experience as Lancaster field representative for the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore, senior loan officer at the Lancaster Farm Credit Association, and, more recently, as branch manager of the West Central Farm Credit Association, Centre Hall, Pa.

Hefft is a 1979 graduate of The Pennsylvania State University at University Park, where he majored in accounting. He also is a 1975 graduate of Dallas (Pa.) Area High School.
