New Idea adds rectangular baler

COLDWATER, Ohio — New Idea Farm Equipment Division recently released the latest rectangular baler model in their growing haytool line. Upon the introduction of the new unit, Tom Kinzenbaw, vice president of marketing, noted that the Model 551 Rectangular Baler was added to the New Idea line as part of their continuing commitment to provide quality haytools at prices that are affordable in today's agricultural economy.

New Idea's 551 Rectangular Baler provides reliable baling in a wide variety of crops. The 87 strokes-per-minute plunger is fed through a 271 square-inch feed opening providing good capacity and efficient performance.

The Model 551 features a dual packer finger design system that provides positive material movement into the bale chamber with chain driven primary and secondary packer fingers. The 24-to 44-inch bales are tied with a Deering-type knoter that works well with either Sisal or plastic twine. The four-spool capacity twine box is fully enclosed as standard equipment.

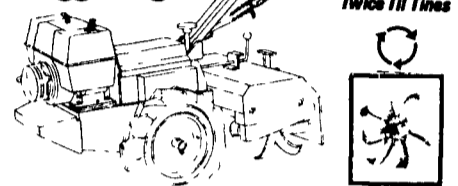

Another standard feature on the 551 Rectangular Baler is the constant velocity power take off that provides smooth, quiet operation and easy maneuverability in sharp turns.
