Milk Your Kids Will Love To Drink
We never outgrow our need for milk. Even though our caloric needs and metabolic rates decrease as we get older, everyone requires the same nutrients needed since childhood.
Milk is a food packed with nutrients, exceptionally high in calcium. Since it also contains protein, riboflavin and other vitamins and minerals, you can use it to meet many of your nutritional needs without consuming too many calories.
Now is a good time to provide milk for your family. Milk production reaches a seasonal peak in June and will be in heavy supply, according to USDA marketing specialists.
Your need for milk changes with age. Children under nine need two to three servings of fluid milk or equivalent in foods rich in milk per day. From ages nine to 12, children need three servings. Teens require four servings; pregnant women, three servings; nursing mothers, four servings; and adults, two servings.

Place in refrigerator until icy cold. Serve with a slice of orange perched on the rim of the glass. Be sure to use only clean, uncracked eggs for making egg nog.
Peppermint Milk Shake: Add crushed peppermint stick candy to chilled milk. Place in refrigerator until candy is completely dissolved. Add more milk if desired. Pour into glass and top with scoop of ice cream and shaved sweet chocolate.

Will Vitamin Supplements Reduce Stress?
Stress is not merely nervous tension but the response of the body to any demand upon it. Stress may be pleasant or unpleasant; what defines it as stress is that it places a demand upon the body for readjustment or adaptation.
Many people take vitamin and mineral supplements to help their bodies respond to stress. It is known that blood levels of vitamins change in response to stress. Little is known, however, about the effect of having an argument on, for example, vitamin C requirements because most stress research has been done on persons suffering from burns or other severe physical trauma. The change in blood levels often reflects a change in storage site, not an actual deficiency. Some researchers believe that supplementation carries a greater risk of harm than benefit.
We cannot avoid stress completely; in fact the complete absence of stress is death. However, we can learn to lessen stress to the point where it is stimulating and not disease-producing. We must learn what is and is not worth fighting over in our lives. Vitamin and mineral supplements are a poor substitute for that kind of judgment.

Do you have trouble getting young children to drink milk? Keep it in the coldest part of your refrigerator so you can serve it cold and fresh. Try some of the following recipes, either as breakfast treats or desserts.
Tempting Pineapple Milk Freeze: Use equal parts of crushed pineapple, vanilla ice cream and milk. Mix well and chill until firm. Serve with a spoon and a straw.
Orange Egg Nog: Stir 1/4 cup frozen orange juice into 1/2 cup chilled milk. Add a beaten egg and 1 tablespoon confectioners sugar. Top with grated nutmeg.
Honey Orange Milk Cooler: Add 1 teaspoon honey to the orange egg
