

Del. Extension Offers Garden Center Guide

NEWARK, Del. — Since flower and garden plots are perennially popular with homeowners, some enterprising entrepreneurs might want to establish a new garden center in their area or upgrade their present business.

For those individuals, a new basic guide, "Garden Center Management," is now offered by the University of Delaware Cooperative Extension System.

The guide was prepared by Susan Barton, extension horticulturist.

From finding funding to moving merchandise with demonstration gardens, the easy-to-read guide covers 20 subject areas in brief chapters of one to four pages.

"Garden Center Management" is spiral bound and costs $5 per copy. Quantity discounts are available for large orders.

To order, send a check payable to the University of Delaware to Delaware Cooperative Extension, Townsend Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19717-1303.
