

Southeastern Region's Top 4-H Seamstresses Model Projects

MECHANICSBURG — The best of the southeastern region's 4-H seamstresses modeled their sewing projects for judges during the Capital Section 4-H Fashion Revue, held July 22 at Cumberland Valley High School.

Gold ribbon winners in the senior division this year were Melanie Kuntz, Adams County; Stacy Reaver, Adams County; Alissa Hooper, Lancaster County; Cindy Harnish, Lancaster County; Judy Rohrer, Lancaster County; Deb Shenk, Lancaster County; and Christie McDonald, Franklin County. These young women will represent the Capital Region at State Fashion Revue, scheduled for Aug. 5 at Eisenhower Auditorium on the University Park Campus of Penn State University.

State revue judges will select 10 honorees whose combined scores from State Revue and submitted 4-H reports will determine Pennsylvania's Fashion Revue representative for 1987.

Seniors earning blue ribbons were Daphne Shenk, Lancaster

In addition to judging, the day-long program also included educational workshops. Pam Steele of Boscov's, Camphill, presented a program titled, "That Something Extra." Lebanon County summer home economist Lori Waltz presented a video look at how fashion happens, and Linda Siegel, former Lebanon County 4-H agent, discussed competition and stress.

The guests' program offered several workshops, including, "Sew What's New," by Sally Miller, master clothing and textiles volunteer from Adams County; and "You be the Judge," by Wendy Hamilton, 4-H youth specialist with Penn State University.

Participants modeled their garments in a fashion show in the afternoon.

Lebanon County 4-H'ers Earn Regional Honors

MECHANICSBURG — Lebanon County 4-H'ers received honors in three regional contests held recently. Six members took top awards during Regional 4-H Night held July 9 at Cumberland Valley High School.

Kelly Lawrence, Stephanie Wolfe, and Dawn Hawryluk received blue ribbons for their demonstrations in the animal science division. Becke Grumbine received a red ribbon for her plant science demonstration entitled "Accent Naturally." Junior demonstrators Jennifer and Michelle Ungemach captured blue ribbons in clothing and textiles and foods and nutrition areas.

Lebanon County 4-H Horse Bowl members earned awards during the Southeast Regional Horse Bowl Competition held July 8 at the Berks County Ag Center. The Junior Horse Bowl Team captured second place in the contest. Members of the team were Michelle Slaybaugh, Rodney Meyer, Amanda Wineski and Jonathan Bixler. Senior Horse Bowl Team members, Rob Kain, Marion Christenson, Niki Nye, and Jennifer Hanshaw captured fourth place honors. The County Horse Bowl Teams are coached by Judy Leroy.

Dairy and Livestock 4-H members competed July 2 in regional competition in York County. Junior Livestock Judging Contestants, Darren Grumbine, Donald Kleinfelter, and Brian Kreider, placed fifth, sixth, and seventh respectively as individuals and second as a team. The Senior Livestock Judging Team placed fifth. Team members were Daryl Grumbine, Alan Auman, and Matt

Bushong. Lebanon County Livestock Judging coaches are Mike States, Kim Horning, and Ken Winebark.

The Junior Dairy Bowl Team captured fourth place honors at the York contest. Members of the team were Craig Sellers, Cory Bomgardner, Ricki Bashore, and Jennifer Bashore. The Senior Dairy Bowl Team placed fifth. Members of the Senior Team were Lynette Shuey, Laura Harding, Sherry Donmoyer, and Judy Mase.

The County Dairy Bowl Teams are coached by Sue Werner.

The three Regional contests are crucial in preparing 4-H'ers for state level competition to be held during Penn State 4-H Week, August 3 to 6, at Penn State University. The week's activities will feature recognition of 4-H'ers demonstrated activities, leadership training, opportunities for cultural and intellectual enrichment, perspective on current concerns of young people, and challenge to 4-H'ers skills and knowledge.

Lebanon 4-H'ers Attend Citizen-Washington Focus

LEBANON — Jennifer Allwein and Eric Funk, Lebanon, attended Citizenship-Washington Focus a week-long experience in citizenship and leadership training at the National 4-H Center in Washington, D.C., earlier this month.

Jennifer and Eric are two of 46 4-H members from Pennsylvania selected to attend. The program is designed to help young people understand the structure and function of our government, country heritage and the importance of active citizen participation. Nine states were represented.

Using the nation's capital as "classroom," the program included a day on Capitol Hill to meet with members of Congress and see government in action. On the visit to Capitol Hill they met with Rep. Robert Walker. The Pennsylvania delegation also met with Senators Arlen Specter and John Heinz, III.

Field trips to historical and cultural sites as well as to federal agencies and community organizations were among the most informative and exciting parts of the week for the 4-H'ers. Some of the interesting field trips included a night view of Washington, visits to various agencies and organizations, Capitol Hill Day, Kennedy Center, and the United States Navy Yard to view the summer ceremony of pageantry and precision. They also enjoyed an evening at a Washington, D.C. dinner theatre. In workshop sessions at the National 4-H Center, the young people discussed contemporary issues and concerns, and ways in which skills and knowledge gained during the week can be applied to the 4-H program here in Lebanon County.

For Jennifer and Eric, one of the best parts of the experience was the opportunity to share ideas with other 4-H members from across the country.
