

Carroll County 4-H Supporters Honored

Masonry Contractors, C.J. Miller Construction Company and R.F. Kline Co., were honored by the Carroll County 4-H Livestock Club at their annual buyers picnic hall at the ag center in Westminster. These three companies donated over $44,000 to help support the 4-H youth of Carroll County. Pictured above are C.J. Miller and Martin Hill. R.F. Kline was not in attendance.

Funk Heads

Vote Yes Committee

Amos Funk, a Millersville vegetable farmer and conservationist, will head the Lancaster County Vote Yes to Save Farmland Committee.

The committee, an affiliate of a state organization, will work for the passage of a voter referendum Nov. 3 that would set aside $100 million to save farmland in Pennsylvania.

The 45-member committee includes area businessmen, farmers, civic leaders, politicians, township officials and lawyers.

It will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Farm and Home Center to map campaign strategy.

Funk is chairman of the Lancaster County Agricultural Preserve Board, which is struggling to save farmland during a time of intense residential and commercial development here.

Preservationists consider approval of the referendum, which would pay farmers to put anti-development deed restrictions on their land, crucial to save-the-farms progress in the county.

Jersey Breed

Success Celebrated

WHITNEYVILLE — The 2nd Annual District Jersey Parish Show was held on August 12, 1987 at the Whitneyville Fairgrounds, Whitneyville, with 132 Jerseys shown. Dennis Wolff was judge, Gene Harris, ringmaster; and Bob Parr of Select Sires was announcer.

Any seed company can brag about its star hybrid. But when you skim that one big winner off the top, there's not much left.

That's where we're different. We give you plenty of options to fit all of your acres. In fact, we have several top-performing hybrids in each maturity to fit your specific needs.

So when all the seed companies start to look alike, look again. It's easy to separate us from the rest.
