

HOW HAMILTON SERVES
YOU AND YOUR DEALER

We Give Your Equipment Tender Loving Care

Warehouse manager Charles Martin has seen equipment storage more than double during his 24 years with Hamilton Equipment.

TLC? Absolutely!
Hamilton Equipment employs 22 people to make it happen in the firm's truck fleet and warehouses. And it's one of the bonuses you get when you buy equipment made by one of Hamilton's 40 manufacturers.

The TLC treatment usually starts a month or more before the order is even placed. Hamilton Equipment buys a full truck of equipment at a time. For something like snowblowers that might be early July.

Then to make sure there's no rough handling Hamilton sends its own men and trucks to pick up the load. As far west as the Dakotas, in fact, and as far south as Georgia.

That also means a better break for you and your dealer on freight charges. Up to 40% better.

Equipment is then stored under two acres of roof at Ephrata, Pa. and Raphine, Va. until orders are received. No rain, sleet or snow on this stuff.

Jim Martin of Hamilton Equipment protects shipping carton with plastic for trip to a Pennsylvania dealer.

The new equipment gets Hamilton's personalized treatment on the last leg of the journey as well. It goes from the Ephrata and Raphine docks to your dealer dock on a Hamilton truck. If it's an open truck, all cartons get a plastic wrap.

No one does it quicker or better than Hamilton Equipment. Or with more tender loving care.
