Rider Appointed Delaware Extension Agent

NEWARK, De. — Lori Rider has been appointed University of Delaware Extension agricultural agent for Sussex County, effective Oct. 1.

Rider, a native of New York, holds a bachelor of science degree in general agriculture from Cornell University.

For the past two years, as University of Delaware Extension assistant for vegetable crops, Rider assisted Extension vegetable crop specialist Ed Kee with field trials. She collected and summarized data on several variety and herbicide trials, including watermelon, cantaloupe, lima beans and peas.

As one of three Sussex County agents, Rider will advise county farmers in person and by phone about fertility programs and management for water quality, feeds and cropping. In addition, she will assist with answering homeowners' calls on gardening problems.

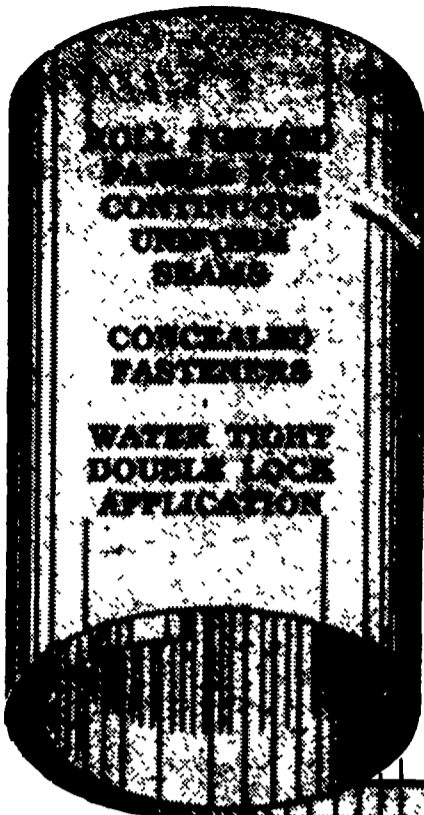

Rider, a member of the county Agents Association, will also write articles for and coordinate production of the monthly county newsletter.

Rider grew up on a dairy farm in upstate New York. She and her husband Robert live near Bridgeville.

The 25 series features double lug hitches and a plated A-frame. Both models have a welded brace from the A-frame to the rear of the bucket and a choice of rigid or hinged backfill blades.
