

Quality Reigns At Maryland

(Continued from Page A1)

al of 232 animals was shown with 128 in the junior show. Judge Elsass is a national known judge and operates the Quiet Cove Holsteins Farm at Wapakoneta, Ohio.

Pintail Point Farm, owned by Louis Schaeffer near Queenstown, dominated the heifer classes in the open show. Their strong senior yearling and intermediate senior yearling were a tough pair to beat. They placed easily as junior champion and reserve junior champion respectively.

Though it was a close placing, Insinga Inspiration Chocolate had more frame and size which placed her on top, pointed out Elsass. She also had the advantage of her age, he said. Chocolate is a Hanoverhill Inspiration-RC daughter out of Insinga Triple Threat Cocoa bred by Insinga Holsteins.

Matthew Iager swept the placing in the remaining three classes as he placed first in the senior heifer calf and summer yearling classes and second in the junior yearling heifer class. His senior heifer calf topped the largest class of the day which had 44 entries.

Md-Maple-Lawn Dixiecrat Queen also earned the junior champion of the junior show. Md-

Maple Lawn Farm also captured the first place ribbon for the junior best three females class. Tommy Remsburg placed on top in the junior yearling class.

The cow classes became a competition between Savage-Leigh

The Maryland State Holstein Show premier breeder honors were awarded to Marlin and Kathy Hoff. Judge Loren Elsass (left) congratulates the winners and Ted Ridgely presents the banner which was sponsored by Sire Power's Maryland Sales Division.

Farm from Knoxville and Hills-Hope Holsteins from Emmitsburg. They both placed animals in the top three in five classes out of the nine. When the final placings were announced, Savage-Leigh E Star Grace, the Reserve All-American Aged Cow in 1987, took all the honors. She was the 1st place aged cow, senior champion and grand champion of the show.

Judge Elsass described her as a cow with great length of body, strength over the top line and displaying a great udder for a cow her age. She was also the best bred and owned animal in her class as well as designated best udder.

Grace is a Thonyma East Star-Twin daughter out of Savage-Leigh Kate Grace. She also took home the Maryland best bred and owned trophy.

The Savage-Leigh Farm exhibitors, Wayne and Cindee Savage, placed on top in the senior best three females class as well. Their son, Christopher, took home the first place ribbon in the dry 4-year-old cow class. Savage-Leigh RORAE was also the reserve grand champion of the junior show.

The reserve junior and reserve grand champion rosettes went to the first place 5-year-old from Hills-Hope Holsteins. Cowlick Tony Ticky was designated best udder of her class as well. David and Sally Hill received the premier exhibitor banner for Hills-Hope Holsteins. Their 2-year-old cow was first in her class along with being best bred and owned and best uddered cows of her class.

Md-Maple-Lawn Sexation Pinky is owned by Michael Iager and was the All-Maryland Aged Cow for 1988, was the first place Dry Aged Cow. She was also the top production winner in her class with 24,955 lbs. of fat corrected milk.

The 100,000-pound-cow class went to the 1988 All-Maryland 100,000-pound-cow, Coldspring Ira Kewpie. Her total performance record for fat corrected milk was 32,599 lbs. She was also second in the aged-cow class and took home the show production award. Kewpie was sired by Coldsprings Ira from Coldsprings Wiz Isabel-Oc. Coldsprings Farm, owned by Marlin and Kathy Hoff from New Windsor, were the recipients of this year's premier breeder banner. In the last five years they have won the premier breeder and the premier exhibitor banners four times each.

Marion Andrew, George Wil-
(Turn to Page A27)

The junior champion of the open show was exhibited by Ron Heffner and owned by Pintail Point Farm. Norman Hill is at the halter of the reserve junior champion, also owned by Pintail Point Farm. Pictured: (from left) Loren Elsass, Judge; Ron Heffner, Norman Hill, Louis Schaeffer, David Hill represents the trophy donor, Hills-Hope Farm.

The premier exhibitor banner of the Maryland State Holstein Show David and Sally Hill of the Hills-Hope Holsteins. Show judge Loren Elsass, (left) and Regina Williams, Alt. Maryland Dairy Princess made the presentation.

Best three females of the Maryland State Holstein show were exhibited by Kelli Savage, Christopher Savage and Wayne Savage with their winning females from the Savage-Leigh Farm.

Dam and daughter winners were Brian Galbreath and Robert Smith representing My Ladys Manor Farm. Regina Williams, Alt. Maryland Dairy Princess made the presentation.

Presenting awards to grand champions of the open show are Donna Johnson (left) banner sponsor in memory of her father, Donald Johnson and Regina Williams, dairy princess. Pictured: (from left) Wayne Savage with grand champion and Norman Hill with the reserve grand; Becky Cummings, Dairy Princess, Kathy Johnson and Loren Elsass.

Junior champion of the Maryland State Holstein show went to Matthew Iager (right) with Md-Maple Lawn Dixiecrat Queen. Show judge Loren Elsass (left) and Becky Cummings, Alleghany County Dairy Princess (center) made the presentation.